Why did the alliance between the US, USSR, and Britain (The Grand Alliance) against Germany start to break down after World War II?

Answer: After Germany's defeat, the Grand Alliance was gone, and ideological differences resurfaced. Additionally, the USSR became frustrated during the war that Britain, France and the USA had played an important role in taking the pressure off the USSR. He suspected them of wanting Hitler to destroy or severely weaken the USSR so that they could get 2 seats with one more (which they didn't).

Describe one key ideological difference between the USA and the USSR.

Answer: The USA promoted capitalism and democracy, while the USSR supported communism and a single party state.

How did the US view the concept of communism?

Answer: The US saw communism as a threat to democracy and individual freedoms. They believed this in turn would threaten economic interests and economic growth. The US were so worried of the spread of communism it became known as the Red Scare.

How did the USSR view capitalism?

Answer: The USSR viewed capitalism as exploitative and a threat to the working class. Capitalist structures of government and economic policy were seen by the USSR as oppressive and what would result of replacing with their communist system. Marxism existed that a system, revolution was required to overthrow existing power structures which would be replaced with the working class in charge with such a time when communist democratic power structures would no longer be needed for the production and for running of a country.

Define the term 'ideological rivalry' in the context of the Cold War.

Answer: Ideological rivalry refers to the conflict between the capitalist and democratic ideas of the USA and the communist ideology of the USSR.
