34 55 014 ADJUSTING PARKING BRAKE

Note:

The parking brake system, which is completely independent of the service brakes, is subjected to only a minimum amount of wear since the parking brake is not applied in normal operating conditions. Consequently there is reduction of friction torque, e.g. from corrosion of brake drums or contamination of linings.

The operating forces which have to be applied increase to the same extent.

To have optimal effect from the parking brake it will normally be sufficient, to drive the car max. 400 meters (1300 feet) from parking lot to workplace with the parking brake lever pulled up until resistance is felt and then one catch further prior to adjusting the parking brake.

Unscrew one wheel bolt on each rear wheel and remove.
The toped bolt must be positioned approx. 45° behind the perpendicular line at bottom.

Turn adjusting nut (1) with a screwdriver to move the parking brake shoe against the brake disc and prevent it from turning.
Then turn back the adjusting nut 4 to 6 threads.
Adjusting nut turned clockwise = tightening.
Adjusting nut turned anticlockwise = loosening.
Brake shoes must turn easily.

Important!
When adjusting nuts are hard to turn, remove rear wheels 30-10-000.
If applicable, detach brake discs.

Pull up parking brake lever 5 teeth and adjust adjusting nuts (2) until the left and right rear wheels can just be turned uniformly.
Release parking brake lever and check, whether the wheels can be turned easily.

This requires that both parking brake cables move easily.
Parking brake must be adjusted when parking brake lever can be pulled up by more than 5 teeth.
Lift off brush cover plate (1).

Unscrew adjusting nuts (2).
