Grade 3-4

Lesson Summary

Students learn and practice how to be Compost Monitors for their school's Food for Thought composting program.

Overview

In this lesson, students will:

- Recognize that a lot of what we throw away can be recycled and composted instead.
- Learn what can and cannot be recycled in New Brunswick.
- Learn about the decomposition cycle and about compost.
- Review what we put in the green compost bin.
- Practice being compost monitors in their classrooms.

Time

1 hour

Background

Every day, people in the City of New Brunswick send their refuse pounds of garbage that gets sent to a landfill every other week. We can keep much of this waste out of landfills by recycling and composting. Recycling paper, bottles, and even helps conserve natural resources and wildlife habitat. Composting helps build gardens, soil and reduce the use of chemical fertilizers by providing natural rich compost that is used on local farms and gardens.

When we recycle and compost, there is believed that sends us the message that trash will not be the landfill. The City of New Brunswick and Moncton, the local waste hauler, have teamed together to create an innovative garbage collection program called (The Program of LA 40 11) which uses three different colored bins: green for compostables, blue for recyclables and black for trash. By using all three bins, New Brunswick residents are being encouraged to get out of the landfill while helping save energy and natural resources.

The following information will help you to prepare your students to be compost monitors in your school's landfills.
