Computer Applications: Final Exam Study Guide 2024

There will be around 15-20 questions from 700-800 words of material on this course or approximately 10 minutes of writing time.

Define the following terms:

Computer network: A collection of interconnected computers, servers, and other devices that can communicate with each other. It can be a local area network (LAN) or a wide area network (WAN).

Internet: The global network of networks that allows for communication and data exchange between computers and other devices.

Network protocol: A set of rules for communication and data exchange between computers and other devices. Examples include TCP/IP and HTTP.

Bandwidth: A measure of the amount of data that can be transmitted over a network in a given amount of time. It is often measured in bits per second (bps) or megabits per second (Mbps).

Latency: The time it takes for data to travel from one point to another over a network. It is often measured in milliseconds (ms).

Wireless network: A network that uses radio waves to transmit data between devices. Examples include Wi-Fi and Bluetooth.

Cloud computing: A model of computing in which resources are provided as a service over the Internet. Examples include Amazon Web Services (AWS) and Microsoft Azure.

Virtualization: A technology that allows for the creation of virtual machines (VMs) that can run on a single physical machine. Examples include VMware and Oracle VM VirtualBox.

Big data: A collection of extremely large and complex data sets that require advanced tools and techniques for storage, processing, and analysis. Examples include social media data and sensor data.

Artificial intelligence (AI): A branch of computer science that deals with the creation of intelligent machines that can perform tasks that would normally require human intelligence. Examples include machine learning and natural language processing.

Blockchain: A distributed ledger technology that allows for the secure and transparent recording of transactions. Examples include Bitcoin and Ethereum.
