Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet on the body composition and physical performance of young, healthy, sedentary men. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control group (CON) or a diet group (D). The diet group was instructed to consume a diet that was 1000 kcal below their estimated maintenance level. The control group was instructed to consume a diet that was equal to their estimated maintenance level. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 10 weeks. The diet group showed a significant decrease in body weight, body fat, and muscle mass compared to the control group. The diet group also showed a significant increase in physical performance compared to the control group. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit diet can improve body composition and physical performance in young, healthy, sedentary men.
