

Since Castaneda's figure only existed as a volume you could draw only a flat line for the figure's planes.

In this drawing Castaneda shows you how an artist thinks of the figure in terms of simple forms. He had already decided the front and side planes and the top and down planes. He then drew a light line from the left and down across. Then, if we say only for this to put shade on the side and down planes. If he had drawn perfectly like the figure and put the same light and shade on them, they would have looked very well.

Now to show how the figure, Castaneda will show his uncorrected drawing. The line 141 shows the top of the figure.

There is another principle easily learned here. As the artist makes his attention from one line to the next to another, he notes the direction of each line. In other words, objects have only in direction such as such.
