Boeing 747 400 Systems Manual:

Automation and Human Performance Raja Parasuraman, Mustapha Mouloua, 2018-01-29 There is perhaps no facet of modern society where the influence of computer automation has not been felt Flight management systems for pilots diagnostic and surgical aids for physicians navigational displays for drivers and decision aiding systems for air traffic controllers represent only a few of the numerous domains in which powerful new automation technologies have been introduced The benefits that have been reaped from this technological revolution have been many At the same time automation has not always worked as planned by designers and many problems have arisen from minor inefficiencies of operation to large scale catastrophic accidents Understanding how humans interact with automation is vital for the successful design of new automated systems that are both safe and efficient The influence of automation technology on human performance has often been investigated in a fragmentary isolated manner with investigators conducting disconnected studies in different domains There has been little contact between these endeavors although principles gleaned from one domain may have implications for another Also with a few exceptions the research has tended to be empirical and only theory driven In recent years however various groups of investigators have begun to examine human performance in automated systems in general and to develop theories of human interaction with automation technology This book presents the current theories and assesses the impact of automation on different aspects of human performance Both basic and applied research is presented to highlight the general principles of human computer interaction in several domains where automation technologies are widely implemented The major premise is that a broad based theory driven approach will have significant implications for the effective design of both current and future automation technologies This volume will be of considerable value to researchers in human

Training and Simulation Shem Malmquist, Dennis A. Vincenzi, Shawn Pruchnicki, Katherine Lemos, 2025-09-16 Developing training and simulation is a complex business From understanding human performance design usability and the limitations of training types to considerations with virtual reality VR producing realistic scenarios and even helping accident investigations leaves the practitioner with almost an overwhelming challenge However they know that their goal is to cut out developing methods that can train and test the sharp end professional to be ready for any eventuality whether in the air a chemical plant or the operating room Through chapters written by leading experts this book aims to address the key questions and concerns when developing training and simulation in high risk industries This book identifies unexplored challenges and weaknesses in the aviation domain including ground based training and flight simulation compared to the real world of in flight complex aircraft operations aviation accidents and incidents airspace and air traffic control aeronautical communications air navigation aircraft automation and pilot certification and testing These concerns are not just relevant to aviation however This book pushes beyond aviation to include other fields including petrochemical and medicine that while on the surface are different include some of the same human and organizational challenges It integrates machine challenges with human factors science and includes a view of the corporate influences on training Safety is a consideration in all the challenges and current limitations in training and simulation and the book is written with the intention of improving both training and safety as industries deal with more and more complex advanced technology Underpinned by case studies and real life examples this book will give the reader a thorough overview of the limitations of current training methods but with a view to improving and developing better methods for future training scenarios Opportunities and solutions are presented for current or future research and the application and incorporation of these in day day operations Training and Simulation Processes Challenges and Solutions will appeal to practitioners of human factors training pilots and ground operators engineers involved in systems design safety specialists test evaluators and accident investigators across multiple domains
