System: The Malaysian Approach Maryam Qays Oleiwi, New Perspectives on Construction in Developing Countries George Ofori, 2012-06-26 Developing countries face the challenge of maintaining economic growth and socio economic development at the core of which sits the construction industry Considerable research on construction in developing countries took place in the 1970 s and 1980 s but little since a gap which this book fills Including contributions from prominent academics and practitioners in Australia China the Netherlands Portugal Singapore South Africa Switzerland and the UK this is a truly international analysis of a subject of global interest The most insightful and relevant of recent research on topics such as Millennium Development Goals the informal construction sector human resource development technology finance and social change are all addressed in the context of the construction industry in the developing world Also considered are other key aspects of construction industry development such as institution building nurturing of contractors and consultants and championing of industry development programmes While the challenge has grown and the needs have become even more pressing the research to date has rarely presented effective solutions Focussing on those aspects of the construction industry most crucial to development this is a much needed up to date study that sheds new light on a variety of concepts and issues This is essential reading for researchers professionals and students interested in the construction industry in developing countries Readers of this book will be interested in its companion volume Contemporary Issues of Construction in Developing Countries Global Warming Ibrahim Dincer, Adnan Midilli, Arif Hepbasli, T. Hikmet Karakoc, 2009-12-03 Global Warming Engineering Solutions goes beyond the discussion of what global warming is and offers complete concrete solutions that can be used to help prevent global warming Innovative engineering solutions are needed to reduce the effects of global warming Discussed here are proposed engineering solutions for reducing global warming resulting from carbon dioxide pollution poor energy and environment policies and emission pollution Solutions discussed include but are not limited to energy conversion technologies and their advantages energy management and conservation energy saving and energy security renewable and sustainable energy technologies emission reduction sustainable

Dissertation from the year 2018 in the subject Engineering Civil Engineering language English abstract This study is aimed at modelling the Sudanese Construction Industry SCI by conducting a comprehensive review and analysis of factors affecting the construction industry in Sudan This study examines the relationship between SCI and the whole economy focusing on its contribution to the Sudanese GDP In addition the study also is aimed at developing suitable System Dynamics Models SDMs in order to better understand the behavior of this industry Multiple research methods are employed including a questionnaire survey and interviews The questionnaire survey is formulated for the purpose of collecting primary data about the factors influencing the SCI and the challenges facing the construction industry Sixteen relevant factors are identified that influence the SCI These factors are evaluated and ranked according to their interrelationships and relative importance to the development of SCI The questionnaire targeted fifty experienced members of construction stakeholder organisations A pairwise comparison method is used to determine dynamic weights and the relative importance of each criterion The relationships between different factors and dynamic weights are assessed by using the VENSIM program to formulate a system dynamic model for SCI The research employed the Genetic Algorithm GA technique to develop the best fit models representing the relationships between the significant factors Two sets of results are obtained random and systematic the systematic results were used to develop several different SDMs The validity and sensitivity of these models are also evaluated The fourth model was connected with the SCI's portion of GDP through a dynamic molecule to measure the output of the construction industry The main outcome of the fourth model is the estimation of a 6.2% share Sudan GDP for the SCI Four strategies were tested simultaneously based on observations of neighboring countries and how they embarked upon developing and improving their construction industries The findings also revealed that the regulation of the sector factor is the top ranked factor Therefore the industry is in desperate need of the establishment and or empowerment of appropriate institutions necessary to facilitate the development of a modern and sophisticated construction industry Estimates of National Expenditure South Africa, 2006 Debates of the National Assembly (Hansard) South Africa.
