

BRANDS THAT MAKE THE BEST CARS

We rank automakers from best to worst on their scores and survey results.

by JEFF S. KRAVITZ

How we make the rankings: The easiest factor to understand in our scores is how we measure reliability. Using our extensive and unique 100,000-mile road testing, we test vehicles through more than 10,000 miles. Predicted reliability ratings are based on problems reported by owners over 100,000 miles driven. A 100 score means no problems. Lower reliability predictions are based on what we've learned in our surveys that indicate the most common type of problem occurs. Reliability is one of the most important factors in our overall scores, and it's the only factor that's not based on safety or other performance factors.

and vehicle ownership of its automakers can show you if the right direction when making a new car purchase. These ratings are based on the average Overall Score, a combination of our most recent predicted reliability and owner satisfaction data, and reflect the all of the models from each automaker. The top five brands this year are the same ones as 2023, with BMW leading the pack with an 87 score, followed by Subaru with an 85 score, followed by Porsche with an 84 score, followed by Honda with a 78 score, followed by Lexus with a 78 score.

It's also worth noting that even high-scoring brands can have some lower-performing models, so be sure to check the ratings for the specific car you're considering. This is especially true for bigger brands like Ford and Toyota, which have some models that performed far better than others in our tests.

If the brands CR ranked this year seem overwhelming, worry not! We've ranked them from worst to best, so you can find the car you're looking for. We've ranked them from worst to best, so you can find the car you're looking for. We've ranked them from worst to best, so you can find the car you're looking for.

to be included in the overall ranking, CR has to have tested at least two current models from a company. We've tested only one model from Land Rover, and none, so they aren't included this year.
