Generalized Linear Models (GLM) and Generalized Linear Mixed Models (GLMM) are extensions of Linear Models (LM) and Linear Mixed Models (LMM) to other distributions. GLM and GLMM are used to model data that are not normally distributed, such as count data, binary data, and data with a continuous response variable that is bounded between 0 and 1. GLM and GLMM are used in a wide range of applications, including epidemiology, psychology, and economics.
