It also offers an excellent source of innovative ideas to stimulate future discussions and developments aimed at applying knowledge and techniques to optimize system performance while at the same time promoting the health safety and wellbeing of individuals. The proceedings include papers from researchers and practitioners, scientists and physicians, institutional leaders, managers and policy makers that contribute to constructing the Human Factors and Ergonomics approach across a variety of methodologies, domains and productive sectors. This volume includes papers addressing the following topics: Working with Computer Systems, Human Modelling and Simulation, Neuroergonomics, Biomechanics, Affective Design, Anthropometry, Advanced Imaging.

RuneQuest Roleplaying Game Matthew Sprange, 2006-08. One of the greatest roleplaying games of all time comes back in a new edition designed for the 21st Century. Building on the previous editions of the game, the all new RuneQuest system has been developed under the watchful eyes of Messrs Stafford and Perrin and has been subjected to the longest and most open playtesting period that any Mongoose game has been through. Released as a 100 page hardback book priced at 19.95, RuneQuest gives players all the core rules they need to begin playing, indeed with the monsters included in this book, Games Masters can construct complete scenarios with this single tome.

Sub-and Supra-Second Timing: Brain, Learning and Development Lihan Chen, Yan Bao, Marc Wittmann, 2016-08-15. Time perception in the range of milliseconds to a few seconds is essential for many important sensory and perceptual tasks including speech perception, motion perception, motor coordination and cross modal interaction. For the brain to be in synchrony with the environment, the physical differences in the speeds of light and sound as well as stimuli from other modalities such as odors must be processed and coordinated. Poppel Bao et al 2015. Time is a subjective feeling that is modulated by emotional states which trigger temporal distortions: temporal dilation vs contraction. Wittmann et al 2014 hence give rise to subjective time that may be different to event time as initially registered in the brain. Recent research suggests that time perception in a multisensory world is subject to prior task experience and shaped by statistical learning processes. Humans are active learners. That is, the engagement of the own body in a timing task within a perceptual action loop will make a noticeable difference in timing performance as compared to when humans only passively perceive the same perceptual scenario. Bao et al 2015, Chen Vroomen 2013. This Research Topic of Sub and Supra Second Timing: Brain Learning and Development has integrated sixteen submissions of novel research on sub and supra timing. We have categorized the papers in this topic into the following four themes from which we can deduce trends of research about multisensory timing in the sub and supra second range: Sensory timing, interaction and reliability; Adaptive representation of time; learning and temporal prediction; Sensorimotor synchronization, embodiment and coordination; Perspective of psychological moment and temporal organization. Overall, the collections in Sub and Supra Second Timing: Brain Learning and Development show some recent trends and debates in multisensory timing research as well as provide a venue to inspire future work in multisensory timing.
