MILLAR,2025-09-22 This is my story In The Inescapable Self A Memoir of Trauma and Survival I offer a raw and unflinching look at a life shaped by profound trauma and mental illness This book is a window into experiences that are often hidden and misunderstood It s an exploration of the depths of human suffering but more than that it s a testament to the stubborn unyielding will to survive My journey began in a childhood marked by domestic violence neglect and the cold reality of police intervention I recount my time in foster care and a subsequent adoption where I faced further physical and emotional abuse This early trauma deeply impacted my mental health leading to years of self harm suicidal ideation and multiple psychiatric hospitalisations I delve into the silent terror of being confined and the constant struggle to find a foothold in a world that felt determined to push me under This memoir isn't just a chronological record of what happened it's a testament to what didn't the hugs never given the safety never provided I write this not from a place of victory but from a place of necessary resilience It is the act of transforming my story from a record of passive suffering into an active narrative of hope and healing By putting my words on these pages I am reclaiming a voice that was once silenced This book is for those who are still lost in the dark It is a beacon of hope a reminder that even in the deepest shadows a light can be born and with stubborn resolve can continue to burn My story is about scars and memories yes but ultimately it's about the beauty that can grow from the wreckage of a past you never chose It's a testament to the fact that healing is possible and that your very existence is proof of your strength It's a story of my survival for myself and for anyone who needs to be reminded that they too can endure
