

CLASSICAL CONDITIONING

Classical conditioning involves the association of a stimulus with a response. In this process, a neutral stimulus is paired with an unconditioned stimulus, which naturally elicits a response. Over time, the neutral stimulus becomes a conditioned stimulus, which elicits the same response.

SCENARIO 1

- Before this trial, the dog had learned to associate the sound of a bell with the presentation of food. When the bell rings, the dog salivates. In this scenario, the dog is presented with the bell (the conditioned stimulus) and then the food (the unconditioned stimulus) is presented.

SCENARIO 2

- In this scenario, the dog is presented with the bell (the conditioned stimulus) and then the food (the unconditioned stimulus) is presented. The dog salivates in response to the bell (the conditioned stimulus) and then the food (the unconditioned stimulus) is presented.
