

Explaining Away Clinical Experience – Results Exceeding Expectations with Cosmetic Microneedling?

Over the years the author noted results beyond expectations with 0.3 mm or 0.5 mm in the group of patients where wrinkles were extensive and most likely due to dermal-epidermal crash.

Structure of the Dermal-Epidermal Junction¹⁰⁰

The dermal-epidermal junction may be divided into four morphological regions:

- The basal epidermal cell membrane which has:
 - Keratinocytes, connected to it via hemidesmosomes.
 - Melanocytes, connected via focal adhesions.
 - Merkel cells, connected via desmosomes of their plasma membrane in contact with the associated nerve end.
- The lamina lucida is traversed by anchoring filaments rich in laminin 332, and 331, which adhere to cell $\beta 4$ integrin at the cell surface of keratinocytes to form an adhesion structure with the hemidesmosomes.
- The lamina densa is mainly composed of type IV collagen, but also contains laminin 332 and 331, nidogen, and heparan sulfate proteoglycans, a major one being perlecan. (The latter acts as the on-switch for FGF7.) The lamina densa is thicker in men than in women, while the lamina lucida has a similar thickness in both sexes.
- The fibrillar zone includes anchoring fibrils that are composed of type VII collagen, tethering the lamina densa to the papillary dermis.

Which Cells Are Responsible for Production of Basal Membrane Components?

"For fibrocytes synthesise BM components, except nidogen. Fibroblasts also produce BM components other than laminin 332. We recently found that increasing the production of BM components, such as laminin 332, collagen IV, and collagen VII, in keratinocytes and/or fibroblasts with/without inhibitors of gelatinases and/or serine proteinases is also effective in enhancing the repair and assembly of BM."¹⁰⁰

Figure 5. The adhesion of the epidermis to the dermis is made through the interactions between keratin intermediate filaments (K5 and K14, BP130 (BPAG1), plectin, integrin $\alpha 4$, $\beta 4$, BP180, laminin-332, laminin-331, type IV collagen, nidogen, perlecan, laminin 331 and 332, anchoring fibrils (type VII collagen), and collagen fibrils (type I and II collagen) of the papillary dermis.¹⁰⁰

Components of the DEJ and Associated Genes Showing Influence of Microneedling

Hemidesmosomes

- Keratin intermediate filaments (K5: 100% and K14 100% upregulation)¹⁰⁰
- BPAG1 and plectin
- Integrin $\alpha 4$

Anchoring Filaments

- BP180 – gene human collagen XVII gene, COL17A1 + 5% upregulation¹⁰⁰
- Laminin-332 - (Altered function of laminin-332 [$\alpha 3(\beta 3\gamma 2)$] consequent to mutations in the LAMA3, LAMB3, and LAMC2 genes cause junctional epidermolysis.)
