Notes: • This map illustrates the major Aztec conquests from the reign of Itzcoatl in 1427 to the reign of Motecuhzoma II in 1520.

• Aztec warriors had the reputation of being fierce fighters, and most territories shown on the map were acquired by force. Independent territories on the map were sometimes the result of a deliberate policy of leaving unconquered lands available for future "flower wars." "Flower wars" were waged to provide an ongoing supply of captured sacrifice victims.

[The priest Cuauhtlequetzqui is speaking] According to the revelation of our god when he appeared to me this night, a prickly pear cactus, standing upon a rock has grown from this heart and has become so tall and luxuriant that a fine eagle has made his nest there. When we discover it we shall be fortunate, for there we shall find our rest, our comfort, and our grandeur. There our name will be praised and our Aztec nation made greatOur god orders us to call this place Tenochtitlan.

VanDerwarker, Gregory D. Wilson, 2015-08-03 The archaeologies of food and warfare have independently developed over the past several decades This volume aims to provide concrete linkages between these research topics through the examination of case studies worldwide Topics considered within the book include the impacts of warfare on the daily food quest warfare and nutritional health ritual foodways and violence the provisioning of warriors and armies status based changes in diet during times of war logistical constraints on military campaigns and violent competition over subsistence resources The diversity of perspectives included in this volume may be a product of new ways of conceptualizing violence not simply as an isolated component of a society nor as an attribute of a particular societal type but instead as a transformative process that is lived and irrevocably alters social economic and political organization and relationships This book highlights this transformative process by presenting a cross cultural perspective on the connection between war and food through the inclusion of case studies from several continents Town Crier ,1998 Flying Magazine ,1980-10 ENC Focus ,1994 The Dynamics of Modern Society William Goode, 2017-09-05 Social research efforts are often more concerned with basic social processes or patterns than with the dynamic relationship between social processes and social institutions In this classic collection contributors posit generalizations drawn from contemporary sociology Their analyses go beyond elementary principles they interpret them qualify them or state them more precisely Each of the contributors focuses on the modern American social structure and they are either explicitly comparative or have made observations that clearly are meant to apply to many countries This volume both embodies and draws attention to newer developments in sociology Like most steps forward in an advancing science this orientation does not reject the older knowledge accumulated during earlier generations but incorporates and expands upon it The differences are in emphasis rather than any denial of the main body of accepted theory On the other hand the collection may be said to represent a response to the many criticisms by humanists and sociologists alike of the mainstream of contemporary sociology as it existed at the time of original publication in the late 1960s Inquiries into social changes like sociological studies of historical phenomena may be viewed as modes of a comparative sociology They permit us to test more fully sociological generalizations The emphasis in this volume on historical and comparative studies and on social change parallels the growing attention of sociology to these problems During the 1960s social science turned from a nearly exclusive preoccupation with middle class populations to a concern with social relations in other societies past as well as present In addition to enriching our knowledge this broader view has increased both the precision and generalizing power of sociological principles World Studies: Latin America Heidi Hayes Jacobs, Michal L.
