Chemical Basis of Genetics

Making a Protein

The sequence of bases of a DNA molecule directs the formation of proteins. Genes usually make either a single protein or a polypeptide, a sequence of amino acids that make up a large part of the protein molecule.

Study the diagrams below. On the right is the genetic code, showing the codons for each amino acid. On the left is the sequence of bases in the gene that makes beef insulin, a protein that breaks down sugar in a cow's blood. Use these two diagrams to fill in the correct sequence of amino acids in the beef insulin molecule shown below.
