twenty first century Write Your Way In Rachel Toor, 2017-08-03 Toor's style is friendly, funny, and genuinely compelling, exhorting students to go deeper with their writing even and especially when the stakes are high. School Library Journal Writing for most of us is bound up with anxiety. It's even worse when it feels like your whole future or at least where you'll spend the next four years in college is on the line. It's easy to understand why so many high school seniors put off working on their applications until the last minute or end up with a generic and clichéd essay. The good news: You already have the secret sauce for crafting a compelling personal essay: your own experiences and your unique voice. The best essays rarely catalog how students have succeeded or achieved. Good writing shows the reader how you've struggled and describes mistakes you've made. Excellent essays express what you're fired up about, illustrate how you think, and illuminate the ways you've grown. More than twenty million students apply to college every year; many of them look similar in terms of test scores, grades, courses taken, extracurricular activities. Admissions officers wade through piles of files. As an applicant, you need to think about what will interest an exhausted reader. What can you write that will make her argue to admit you instead of the thousands of other applicants? A good essay will be conversational and rich in vivid details, and it could only be written by one person: you. This book will help you figure out how to find and present the best in yourself. You'll acquire some useful tools for writing well and may even have fun in the process.

Improving Writing and Thinking Through Assessment Teresa L. Flateby, 2010-06-01 Improving Writing and Thinking through Assessment is designed to help individual faculty and administrators select assessment approaches and measures to maximize their students' writing and thinking. The book offers useful guidance through presentation of recommended assessment guidelines and measurement principles in Part 1 and applications from a variety of contributors in Part 2. It addresses a wide range of audiences, including instructors who want to assess and thus foster writing and thinking in their courses; administrators and instructors planning to assess writing and thinking at the program or institutional level; and graduate students interested in improving students' writing and critical thinking. This book is more guide than a cookbook. By providing comprehensive standards and criteria that help individuals or teams develop plans and measures to improve writing and thinking, the book should be helpful for academic and Student Affairs administrators and faculty, as the principles apply equally to all engaged in assessment. Contributors representing a wide range of educators illustrate many of the approaches and methods described in the theoretical section of the book using a variety of assessment strategies at both classroom and program levels. Readers will see how different types of institutions, both private and public, as well as undergraduate and graduate, have designed assessment strategies and plans to gauge and enhance writing and thinking growth in the classroom and across programs. They candidly describe challenges encountered and solutions they adopted or suggest. These chapters reflect approaches and perspectives from various discourse communities, including writing program administrators, composition faculty, assessment professionals, and individual faculty representing several disciplines. The author argues the urgent need to develop strong writers and thinkers. She discusses challenges and obstacles but underscores the necessity for more faculty involvement and institutional commitment This book will help institutions and individual faculty design and implement sound meaningful assessment strategies to foster effective writing and thinking that will both advance the goals of the institutional mission and meet faculty s disciplinary objectives and scholarly concerns Perspectives on Literacy in a Community College Donald G.
