

Lesson Outline*LESSON 3Biological Evidence of EvolutionA. Evidence for Evolution

1. Evolution does not occur in a straight line with one species _____ another in a series of orderly steps.
  - a. Living species that are closely related share a common _____.
  - b. How closely related two species are depends when they _____, or split, from their common ancestor.
2. The study of similarities and differences among structures of living species is called _____.
  - a. Body parts of organisms that are similar in position but different in function are called _____. The forelimbs of different mammals are examples.
  - b. If species have homologous structures, this suggests that the species are _____.
  - c. The more similar two structures are to each other, the more likely it is that the species have evolved from a recent _____.
  - d. _____ are body parts that perform a similar function but differ in structure. The wings of flies and birds are examples.
  - e. The existence of analogous structures indicates that the species are not _____ related.
3. Body parts that have lost their original function through evolution are called _____. The _____ of flightless birds are an example.
  - a. The best explanation for _____ is that the species that have vestigial structures are _____ to ancestral species that still use the structures for a specific purpose.
  - b. Whales have a tiny _____ bone, which is a vestigial structure for walking on land.
