Chapter 10

10.1.1

Network Attacks Today

The news media commonly covers attacks on enterprise networks. Simply search the internet for "latest network attacks" to find up-to-date information on current attacks. Most likely, these attacks will involve one or more of the following:

- Distributed Denial of Service (DDoS) – This is a coordinated attack from many devices, called zombies, with the intention of degrading or halting public access to an organization's website and resources.
- Data Breach – This is an attack in which an organization's data servers or hosts are compromised to steal confidential information.
- Malware – This is an attack in which an organization's hosts are infected with malicious software that cause a variety of problems. For example, ransomware such as WannaCry, shown in the figure, encrypts the data on a host and locks access to it until a ransom is paid.

Network Security Devices

Various network security devices are required to protect the network perimeter from outside access. These devices could include a virtual private network (VPN) enabled router, a next-generation firewall (NGFW), and a network access control (NAC) device.

- A VPN-enabled router provides a secure connection to remote users across a public network and into the enterprise network. VPN services can be integrated into the firewall.
- An NGFW provides stateful packet inspection, application visibility and control, a next-generation intrusion prevention system (NGIPS), advanced malware protection (AMP), and URL filtering.
- A NAC device includes authentication, authorization, and accounting (AAA) services. In larger enterprises, these services might be incorporated into an appliance that can manage access policies across a wide variety of users and device types. The Cisco Identity Services Engine (ISE) is an example of a NAC device.
