Elaborated Curriculum Guide:

Resources in Education, 1990 Sex Education Philip Meredith, 2024-11-01 In the book Sex Education first published in 1989 Philip Meredith focuses upon the British situation to investigate the political management of school sex education. The author presents new insights into the problems of state provision of an aspect of education which many feel should be the exclusive domain of parents. He explores the hidden political dynamics which dictate and influence the moral debate over the theory and practice of sex education and argues for a more rational involvement of government in resolving the problems of practice. The book includes comparative details of political management and curriculum design drawn mainly from Sweden, Denmark, the Federal Republic of Germany, Poland and Belgium which clarifies or provides alternatives to the British handling of the subject. Basing his recommendations on these examples of more constructive management of sex education, Philip Meredith challenges the government to take a more positive role by delegating policy decision making in this area to a nationally representative independent and authoritative body of experts whose deliberations the government would defend against minority moral interests who wield a disproportionate power.

Education and Society in Comparative Context
Eija Kimonen, 2015-12-17 What was the interrelationship between education and society during the twentieth century in the United States and India? What is the essence of the historical development of educational policies and social systems in these two countries? What philosophical views and developmental courses underlie their outdoor oriented education? What are their aims of outdoor oriented education? What procedures are connected with their outdoor oriented education? These questions are examined in this unique volume. This book is divided into three parts. The first part creates a context for the comparison of the issues concerning education and society. The central point of departure used here regards education as being closely related to the totality of culture and human activity. The dialectic process between education and society is realized differently in accordance with the value objectives that provide the background for different societies. This comparative educational study uses a historico-hermeneutical approach. The second part analyzes the social systems and educational policies of the United States and India following their developmental trends and patterns. The nature of the relationship between education and society for each country is further brought into focus when it is interpreted from the perspective of the philosophical views, pedagogical aims and procedures of twentieth century outdoor oriented education. The case studies provide an interesting insight into how changes in educational policy have been reflected in the every day pedagogical procedures used in schools in the United States and India. The third part is an analysis and comparison of the phenomena previously presented that are related to education and society through the lenses suggested by sociological theories. It compares the dimensions of the interrelationship between education and society from the standpoint of outdoor oriented education in the two countries during the twentieth century.
