Doing Survey Research Peter M. Nardi, 2018-01-03

Each day we are faced with continuing claims made by media pundits politicians teachers and friends often quoting research Consider also the numerous comments and posts on Internet blogs Twitter and Facebook that illustrate the confusion between opinion and factual data How do we learn to interpret the research we hear about and read to distinguish opinions from scientific facts and to use this knowledge to conduct our own studies to answer the questions faced in everyday situations Understanding the components that go into scientific research and learning how to do research make decisions about which statistics to use and analyze statistical findings are goals for everyone in today's research oriented world Questions about the reliability and validity of data from a study or public opinion poll come up routinely and need critical review This book contributes to achieving these objectives

Doing Survey Research is intended for people who want to learn how to conduct quantitative studies for a project in an undergraduate course a graduate level thesis or a survey that an employer may want completed This brief practical textbook prepares beginners to conduct their own survey research and write up the results as well as read and interpret other people's research It combines survey design with data analysis and interpretation And it is for those who need to understand and critically interpret survey research found in scholarly journals reports distributed in the workplace and social scientific findings presented online in the media on a blog or in social media postings
