Democracy at a Crossroads Gregory L. Samuels, Amy Samuels, 2019-06-01 At a time of questionable civility in American politics democratic education appears to be at a crossroads As we consider how to best explore democracy and foster a more civically engaged populace in the current socio political context it is critical to examine what frames our educational systems policies and practices and shapes our civic identity While teachers struggle with decreased instructional time for social studies and the demands of standardized tests the social sciences are often pushed to the margins Reflecting on how to negotiate local state national and global tensions related to policy and practice educators work to do what is best to equip students to foster democratic citizenship and ideals Social sciences educators are uniquely positioned to embrace a journey that upholds democratic ideals of equality freedom and justice while simultaneously critiquing inequity and injustice in schools and our society The contributors to this volume situate a variety of discussions within the context of the crossroads and explore how to negotiate translate and reconceptualize our own beliefs and positionings in ways that positively influence and empower students teachers teacher educators and education policy makers Studies are presented related to civic education cross cultural interpretations emotional citizenship international economics and race consciousness as well as those that discuss how to challenge dominant narratives and negotiate educational policies and practices

A Contest without Winners Kate Phillippo, 2019-03-19 Seeing the consequences of competitive school choice policy through students eyes While policymakers often justify school choice as a means to alleviate opportunity and achievement gaps an unanticipated effect is increased competition over access to coveted high performing schools In A Contest without Winners Kate Phillippo follows a diverse group of Chicago students through the processes of researching applying to and enrolling in public high school Throughout this journey students prove themselves powerful policy actors who carry out and redefine competitive choice Phillippo s work amplifies the voices of students rather than the parents educators public intellectuals and policymakers who so often inform school choice research and investigates how students interact with and emerge from competitive choice academically developmentally and civically Through students experiences she shows how competitive choice legitimates and exacerbates existing social inequalities collides with students developmental vulnerability to messages about their ability merit and potential and encourages young people s individualistic actions as they come to feel that they must earn their educational rights From urban infrastructure to income inequality to racial segregation Phillippo examines the factors that shape students policy enactment and interpretation as policymakers and educators ask students to compete for access to public resources With competitive choice even the winners the lucky few admitted to their dream schools don t outright win A Contest without Winners challenges meritocratic and market driven notions of opportunity creation for young people and raises critical questions about the goals we have for public schooling

Japanese and American Education Harry Wray,1999-06-30 In the United States and Japan there are cultural attitudes that both promote and hinder education While Japanese education is usually described as superior to an American education a careful examination reveals that in both systems certain values and attitudes are carried to extremes and have a negative impact This book shows how cultural attitudes shape schools and how Americans and Japanese can overcome the educational maladies in both countries Under the present educational centralization Japanese secondary school teachers are severely handicapped in carrying out the goals of cultivating a spontaneous spirit and creating a culture rich in individuality Although Japanese nursery kindergarten and elementary teachers could provide many hints to improve the methodology of their American counterparts the reverse is true at the secondary and college levels American teachers try to encourage students to be creative in approaching a problem writing an essay and sketching an object and they will suggest appropriate courses recommend books and encourage intellectual challenge while Japanese secondary school teachers goal is narrowly focused on presenting designated textual material in as efficient a manner as possible In the United States farmers constitute less than ten percent of the population but American schools still operate as if students had to return home each day for chores or as if the summer vacation and fall schedule had to be used to help parents with planting cultivating and harvesting crops Today most American mothers work full time and children have much more free time and live in less secure urban environments The amount of time spent attending school in Japan and the United States is just one of the cultural attitudes that is examined in this book
