Constructing The Team Report:

Buildability Trevor Holroyd, 2003-04-28 Projects that go well and leave satisfied clients and contractors are based on thorough planning and design. However, there are many factors to consider in order to achieve a successful outcome. These include the implementation of guidance on fair practice, better management and improved techniques. The New Engineering Contract Arthur McInnis, 2001 The introduction of the New Engineering Contract (NEC) encourages a systematic approach to contracting which is multidisciplinary in nature and fully interlocked in form. The NEC is intended by its supporters to be more flexible and easier to use than any current leading traditional standard forms of contract. It is believed that these features reduce adversariality and disputes. The NEC seeks to achieve this aim primarily through co-operative management techniques and incentives built into the NEC's procedures. This commentary analyses and evaluates these and related claims of innovation. The New Engineering Contract A legal commentary examines the background to the NEC, its design objectives, structure, procedures and likely judicial interpretation to determine whether it improves upon the traditional standard forms of contract. Special attention is given in the commentary to the development and the significance of the principles underlying preparation of the NEC, as well as the arguments in favour of and against them. Throughout the detailed commentary upon the NEC clauses, comparisons to the traditional forms are also made to highlight unique features and principles of general application. The conclusion reached is that the NEC does make a significant contribution to the development of standard forms of contract, addresses many of their shortcomings and offers one of the best models for their future development. direction and design The commentary draws upon the body of the project management literature and legal analysis to support its conclusions. The New Engineering Contract A legal commentary will be essential reading for lawyers, barristers and solicitors as well as engineers and project managers. Payment Under the Construction Contracts Legislation Roderick Pettigrew, 2005 This is an authoritative review of current construction industry payment practices under Part II of the Housing Grants, Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 for the construction industry. It provides guidance on key features of the Act, notably the payment procedures and corresponding structures. Constructing the Team : Final Report : Joint Review of Procurement and Contractual Arrangements in the United Kingdom Construction Industry Michael Latham, 1994 Constructing the Future Ghassan Aouad, Angela Lee, Song Wu, 2006-12-05 This essential book introduces the concept of nD modelling which takes the theory of computer modelling of the built environment to n dimensions. nD modelling utilizes a decision support tool for systematic assessment and comparison between various design parameters such as cost, accessibility, maintainability, sustainability, crime, energy, whole life costing, acoustics and scheduling among others. Constructing the Future is a comprehensive book which provides a global perspective on the concept of nD modelling and examines its impact on construction from development to application. The text offers a critique of competing views that seek to justify or ignore the role of nD modelling in the future of construction as well as describing
