Constitution Of The Frn 1999:

Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria, 1999 Nigeria, Citizens' Forum for Constitutional Reform (Nigeria), 2001      Constitutional Law in Nigeria Oyelowo Oyewo, 2019-02-13 Derived from the renowned multi volume International Encyclopaedia of Laws this very useful analysis of constitutional law in Nigeria provides essential information on the country's sources of constitutional law its form of government and its administrative structure Lawyers who handle transnational matters will appreciate the clarifications of particular terminology and its application Throughout the book the treatment emphasizes the specific points at which constitutional law affects the interpretation of legal rules and procedure Thorough coverage by a local expert fully describes the political system the historical background the role of treaties legislation jurisprudence and administrative regulations The discussion of the form and structure of government outlines its legal status the jurisdiction and workings of the central state organs the subdivisions of the state its decentralized authorities and concepts of citizenship Special issues include the legal position of aliens foreign relations taxing and spending powers emergency laws the power of the military and the constitutional relationship between church and state Details are presented in such a way that readers who are unfamiliar with specific terms and concepts in varying contexts will fully grasp their meaning and significance Its succinct yet scholarly nature as well as the practical quality of the information it provides make this book a valuable time saving tool for both practising and academic jurists Lawyers representing parties with interests in Nigeria will welcome this guide and academics and researchers will appreciate its value in the study of comparative constitutional law      Constitutional Change and Constitutionalism in Africa , 2025-05-16 The new generation of African constitutions crafted in the 1990s marked the beginning of a trend that promised a radical transformation of the continent's governance landscape This movement aimed to eliminate the risks of coups and political instability that had plagued Africa since the 1960s by embedding democracy and constitutionalism However the wave of constitutional reforms post 1990s seems to have sparked a contagious fever of making unmaking and remaking constitutions The nature and frequency of these changes threaten to undermine the progress made in entrenching a culture of constitutionalism good governance and respect for the rule of law It is therefore no surprise that there is almost universal agreement that Africa is now facing a profound crisis of democracy and constitutionalism Constitutional Change and Constitutionalism in Africa examines the nature and extent of these changes which have been occurring more frequently and sometimes more arbitrarily than anticipated Among the main questions investigated are the constitution making process and the roles of various internal actors such as the legislature executive and judiciary as well as external actors like the African Union and Regional Economic Communities in the different processes of constitutional change Ultimately the discussions aim to explore how the processes of constitutional change whether inevitable and unavoidable or contrived can be conducted in a manner that does not undermine or threaten the efforts to entrench democracy constitutionalism good governance and respect for the rule of law on the African continent

Telecommunications Law and Regulation in Nigeria Uchenna Jerome Orji, 2018-12-19 The Nigerian telecommunications industry has continued to grow in a phenomenal manner following market liberalization reforms that commenced in the 1990s. As of 2017, the telecommunications industry was one of the fastest growing economic sectors in Nigeria and the fourth largest contributor to the country's Gross Domestic Product. The telecommunications industry, however, remains a highly technical and naturally dynamic industry that has not been a usual area for legal research in developing countries such as Nigeria. This book bridges that gap in knowledge by providing an analysis of the legal and policy instruments that regulate the industry. It comprises eleven chapters that discuss the historical evolution of telecommunications and its regulation, the development of the Nigerian telecommunications industry from 1886 to 2017, the legal basis for the regulation of the industry, the licensing and duties of service providers, the regulation of network infrastructure, the protection of consumers, the regulation of competition, interconnection, universal access, and environmental protection, and the resolution of industry disputes. This book will be useful to policy makers, legislators, regulators, lawyers, law students, investors, operators, and consumers, as well as any person interested in the Nigerian telecommunications industry.

The Challenges of Democratic Governance in Nigeria's Fourth Republic Stanley Naribo Ngoa, Farooq A. Kperogi, Eghosa E. Osaghae, 2024-10-14 This book is a collection of scholarly essays from some of Nigeria's most notable social science scholars on the character, contours, and peculiarities of democratic practices in Nigeria's fourth attempt at constitutional rule after years of brutally absolutist military regimes. The Fourth Republic began in 1999 and continues to this day. It is coterminous with the restoration of constitutional rule after 16 years of sustained military rule, which represents the longest stretch of democratic self-rule since Nigeria won independence from British colonialism in 1960. The chapters in this book contain scholarly insights into the pitfalls of governance, institutional dysfunctions, and foundational woes that continue to threaten the vitality of the Fourth Republic. Contributors to the book offer critical theoretical lenses to gaze at the decline in democratic citizenship, weakening of faith in the promises of democracy, loss of critical media engagement with the state, and deterioration of the socio-political fortunes of the state in Nigeria.

Law, Religion and Human Flourishing in Africa M. Christian Green, 2019-05-15 A shared interest of law and religion is the advancement of human flourishing; yet there is no common understanding of what it means for humans to flourish and the means by which to attain a flourishing life. The concept of human flourishing is especially important for Africa, where community and national development compete with forces of conflict and scarce resources. In the broadest sense, the concept of human flourishing focuses our attention on having a comprehensively good or worthwhile life, but various religious and legal traditions suggest different norms for measuring the quality of life and designing the institutional structures that could best facilitate and preserve it.
