The governor spring (1) is an adjustable threaded housing with spring loaded arm. The governor spring is secured into the housing arm (18). The governor spring is secured into the housing arm (18) of the engine.

A bumper spring (15), fitted into the adjusting screw (15), used to eliminate surging at high idle. As low idle speed, a spring (15) of the bumper spring (15) causes the fly to disengage the thrust plate bearing away from the governor lever (26), supported by the bumper spring (15), thereby automatically increasing control speed.

The shut-off device consists of the shut-off lever (25), arm (25), spring (25) and governor (25). The shut-off lever (25) is a part of the arm (25) supported on the shaft (25) of the shut-off lever (25). The lever system by which the flyweight is driven on point (25) causes the control lever (15) to move to the right in the direction of "STOP". There is a flexible connection between the arm (25) and the shut-off lever (25) which permits when the spring (25) contracts and contracts (25) shut-off lever (25) is released, a return spring (25) forces it back into its original position or "STOP" position.
