underestimated the complex linkages of benefits produced by programs involved in providing electricity and clean cooking energy to rural and other populations without access to modern energy services Thus it has often been difficult to balance the costs of program investments in energy access vis vis their benefits This study s main objective is to develop a practical method by which to measure the benefits of rural energy including both electricity and clean cooking The methods reviewed in this report involve both formal and informal techniques of data collection including quantitative and qualitative methods of analysis The research pays attention to such concepts as quality of life effects on education and other key components of social development that is it tackles those benefits of modern energy access that traditionally have been difficult to measure as well as the easier to measure benefits
