

DSM-5 DIAGNOSTIC AND STATISTICAL MANUAL (MENTAL DISORDERS) PART 1

Autism Spectrum Disorder

A. Persistent deficits in social communication and social interaction across multiple contexts, as manifested by the following, currently or by history (examples are illustrative, not exhaustive):

- Deficits in social-emotional reciprocity, ranging, for example, from abnormal social approach and failure of normal back-and-forth conversation; to reduced sharing of interests, emotions, or affect; to failure to initiate or respond to social interactions.
- Deficits in nonverbal communicative behaviors used for social interaction, ranging, for example, from poorly integrated verbal and nonverbal communication; to abnormalities in eye contact and body language or deficits in understanding and use of gestures; to a total lack of facial expressions and nonverbal communication.
- Deficits in developing, maintaining, and understanding relationships, ranging, for example, from difficulties adjusting behavior to suit various social contexts; to difficulties in sharing imaginative play or in making friends; to absence of interest in peers.

Specify current severity:

Severity is based on social communication impairments and restricted, repetitive patterns of behavior

B. Restricted, repetitive patterns of behavior, interests, or activities, as manifested by at least two of the following, currently or by history (examples are illustrative, not exhaustive):

- Stereotyped or repetitive motor movements, use of objects, or speech (e.g., simple motor stereotypies, lining up toys or flipping objects, echolalia, idiosyncratic phrases).
- Insistence on sameness, inflexible adherence to routines, or ritualized patterns of verbal or nonverbal behavior (e.g., extreme distress at small changes, difficulties with transitions, rigid thinking patterns, greeting rituals, need to take same route or eat same food every day).
- Highly restricted, fixated interests that are abnormal in intensity or focus (e.g., strong attachment to or preoccupation with unusual objects, excessively circumscribed or perseverative interests).

- Hyper- or hyporeactivity to sensory input or unusual interest in sensory aspects of the environment (e.g., apparent indifference to pain/temperature, adverse response to specific sounds or textures, excessive smelling or touching of objects, visual fascination with lights or movement).

Specify current severity:

Severity is based on social communication impairments and restricted, repetitive patterns of behavior

C. Symptoms must be present in the early developmental period (but may not become fully manifest until social demands exceed limited capacities, or may be masked by learned strategies in later life).

D. Symptoms cause clinically significant impairment in social, occupational, or other important areas of current functioning.

E. These disturbances are not better explained by intellectual disability (intellectual developmental disorder) or global developmental delay. Intellectual disability and autism spectrum disorder frequently co-occur; to make comorbid diagnoses of autism spectrum disorder and intellectual disability, social communication should be below that expected for general developmental level.

Note: Individuals with a well-established DSM-IV diagnosis of autistic disorder, Asperger's disorder, or pervasive developmental disorder not otherwise specified should be given the diagnosis of autism spectrum disorder. Individuals who have marked deficits in social communication, but whose symptoms do not otherwise meet criteria for autism spectrum disorder, should be evaluated for social (pragmatic) communication disorder.

Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder

A. A persistent pattern of inattention and/or hyperactivity-impulsivity that interferes with functioning or development, as characterized by (1) and/or (2):

- Inattention: Six (or more) of the following symptoms have persisted for at least 6 months to a degree that is inconsistent with developmental level and that negatively impacts directly on social and academic/occupational activities:

Kupfer, Michael B. First, Darrel A. Regier, 2002 In the ongoing quest to improve our psychiatric diagnostic system we are now searching for new approaches to understanding the etiological and pathophysiological mechanisms that can improve the validity of our diagnoses and the consequent power of our preventive and treatment interventions venturing beyond the current DSM paradigm and DSM IV framework This thought provoking volume produced as a partnership between the American Psychiatric Association the National Institute of Mental Health the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism and the National Institute on Drug Abuse represents a far reaching attempt to stimulate research and discussion in the field in preparation for the eventual start of the DSM V process still several years hence The book Explores a variety of basic nomenclature issues including the desirability of rating the quality and quantity of information available to support the different disorders in the DSM in order to indicate the disparity of empirical support across the diagnostic system Offers a neuroscience research agenda to guide development of a pathophysiologically based classification for DSM V which reviews genetic brain imaging postmortem and animal model research and includes strategic insights for a new research agenda Presents highlights of recent progress in developmental neuroscience genetics psychology psychopathology and epidemiology using a bioecological perspective to focus on the first two decades of life when rapid changes in behavior emotion and cognition occur Discusses how to address two important gaps in the current DSM IV 1 the categorical method of diagnosing personality disorders and their relationship with Axis I disorders and 2 the limited provision for the diagnosis of relational disorders suggesting a research agenda for personality disorders that considers replacing the current categorical approach with a dimensional classification of personality Reevaluates the relationship between mental disorders and disability asserting that research into disability and impairment would benefit from the diagnosis of mental disorders be uncoupled from a requirement for impairment or disability to foster a more vigorous research agenda on the etiologies courses and treatment of mental disorders as well as disabilities and to avert unintended consequences of delayed diagnosis and treatment Examines the importance of culture in psychopathology and the main cultural variables at play in the diagnostic process stating that training present and future professionals in the need to include cultural factors in the diagnostic process is a logical step in any attempt to develop comprehensive research programs in psychology psychiatry and related disciplines This fascinating work with contributions from an international group of research investigators reaches into the core of psychiatry providing invaluable background and insights for all psychology and psychiatry professionals food for thought and further research that will be relevant for years to come

DSM Allan V. Horwitz,2021-08-17 The first comprehensive history of psychiatry s bible the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders Over the past seventy years the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders or DSM has evolved from a virtually unknown and little used pamphlet to an imposing and comprehensive compendium of mental disorder Its nearly 300 conditions have become the touchstones for the diagnoses that patients receive students are taught researchers study insurers reimburse and drug companies promote Although the manual is portrayed as an authoritative corpus of psychiatric knowledge it is a product of intense political conflicts dissension and factionalism The manual results from struggles among psychiatric researchers and clinicians different mental health professions and a variety of patient familial feminist gay and veterans interest groups The DSM is fundamentally a social document that both reflects and shapes the professional economic and cultural forces associated with its use In DSM Allan V Horwitz examines how the manual known colloquially as psychiatry s bible has been at the center of thinking about mental health in the United States since its original publication in 1952 The first book to examine its entire history this volume draws on both archival sources and the literature on modern psychiatry to show how the history of the DSM is more a story of the growing social importance of psychiatric diagnoses than of increasing knowledge about the nature of mental disorder. Despite attempts to replace it, Horwitz argues that the DSM persists because its diagnostic entities are closely intertwined with too many interests that benefit from them. This comprehensive treatment should appeal to not only specialists but also anyone who is interested in how diagnoses of mental illness have evolved over the past seven decades from unwanted and often imposed labels to resources that lead to valued mental health treatments and social services. Dsm-5 Diagnostic and Statistical Manual (Mental Disorders) Part 1 (Speedy Study Guides) Speedy Publishing LLC, 2015-04-25.
