Challenges Of Curriculum Implementation In Kenya:

Special Issue: Soka Approaches in Education Vol 9 No SI (2020) JIS Contributors, Special Issue Soka Approaches in Education Vol 9 No SI 2020 Identifying the Solution Potential of Social Media to Address Teacher Challenges Associated with Competency-Based Curriculum Implementation in Kenya Christina Sang, 2025 Kenya's ongoing education reform faces challenges due to persistent teacher shortages. Teachers across Kenya are experiencing burnout due to large workloads, difficult teacher to student ratios and preparing themselves for the switch to a competency based curriculum. This paper examines the opportunity for Kenyan teachers to utilize social media as a coping mechanism for stress and burnout due to its ability to foster community and promote professional development. A survey with ninety five responses from Kenyan teachers gathered information about teachers exposure to social media usage of social media and criteria for determining the quality of content posted onto social media. Teachers reported that they commonly use social media daily with many using social media with the intent of gaining access to more resources. Most teachers were found to be familiar with WhatsApp with interest in using social media to gain access to training certificates and workshops and curriculum development resources like lesson plans and project ideas. Primary credibility criteria for Kenyan teachers included the qualifications of the teacher posting the resources and how recent the material was made or posted. This work affirms that social media has the potential to benefit Kenyan teachers experiencing challenges of burnout imparted on them by the shift to a competency based curriculum.
