

A scenic view of the London skyline from across the River Thames. The Gherkin (30 St Mary Axe) is the central focus, its distinctive diamond-patterned glass facade reflecting the sky. To its left, the blue steel structure of the Tower Bridge is visible. The background is filled with other skyscrapers of the City of London under a blue sky with scattered white clouds. The water of the river is in the foreground, and a small green buoy is visible in the bottom right corner.
