From a modern perspective journalism is highly relevant to modern society along with the emergence of mass printing system and professionalisation. This book however expands the meaning of journalism and views it as a social process. It will not only explore the roots and development of Chinese journalism and communication but also demonstrate how Chinese journalism and communication interact and struggle with social culture and politics. Arranged in chronological order, mainly this book examines the initial development of Chinese journalism in ancient times in chapter 1 which from then manifested strong political attributes. After the Opium War in 1840 missionaries and businessmen from the West started to set up newspapers and periodicals in China which brought about the birth of China's modern journalism industry. Then China's private newspapers and political party's press are studied which are closely linked with political revolutions and have a far reaching impact on modern Chinese society. What happened to Chinese journalism and communication after the founding of People's Republic of China in 1949. This book reviews the newspaper reforms and studies the great negative impacts brought by Cultural Revolution. Noteworthy news phenomena after the reform and opening up are also covered. This book will appeal to scholars and students in journalism communication and Chinese studies. Readers interested in Chinese society and modern Chinese history will also be attracted by it.

Advertising in Asia Katherine Toland Frith, 1996. The growth of advertising in Asia has been an important ingredient in the emergence of free market economies there. Advertising in Asia offers an in depth analysis of how advertising operates in some of the more developed countries and colonies in this region. Written by practitioners and scholars from throughout the region. Advertising in Asia examines current issues such as political structure, national development policies, social and cultural underpinnings, press policies and advertising regulations. Advertising in Asia is recommended for marketers, educators, journalists, students and government officials interested in the dynamics of economic growth and marketing communications in this region.
