Business And Government In Industrializing Asia:

Business and Government in Industrializing Asia Andrew J. MacIntyre, 1994 Contributes to the task of specifying the ways in which political arrangements or more broadly institutions constrain policy and thus performance by focusing on the interaction between business and government in a range of industrialized and industrializing countries in Northeast and Southeast Asia The volume comprises ten original essays by specialists with theoretical and country specific expertise from around Asia Australia and the US For enhanced comparability the focus is primarily on six countries with established market based economic systems South Korea Taiwan Thailand Malaysia Indonesia and the Philippines Acidic paper Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Business-government Relations in Industrialising East Asia Andrew J.

MacIntyre, 1990 Southeast Asia's Industrialization K. Jomo, 2001-10-02 Drawing on a wide range of expertise this volume addresses fundamental issues surrounding industrialization in Southeast Asia which are particularly pressing now that the region's miracle has been transformed into a debacle and the world seeks to draw lessons from the experience The contributors address crucial questions such as How did Southeast Asia industrialize What have been the consequences of domination by foreign investment Did the region's resource wealth weaken its imperative to industrialize Why else has Southeast Asia's industrialization been inferior to the rest of the East Asian region Did the countries financial systems help industrialization Was this industrialization sustainable The volume includes detailed studies of Singapore Malaysia Thailand and Indonesia A Region of Regimes T. J. Pempel, 2021-09-15 A Region of Regimes traces the relationship between politics and economics power and prosperity in the Asia Pacific in the decades since the Second World War This book complicates familiar and incomplete narratives of the Asian economic miracle to show radically different paths leading to high growth for many but abject failure for some T J Pempel analyzes policies and data from ten East Asian countries categorizing them into three distinct regime types each historically contingent and the product of specific configurations of domestic institutions socio economic resources and external support Pempel identifies Japan Korea and Taiwan as developmental regimes showing how each then diverged due to domestic and international forces North Korea Myanmar and the Philippines under Marcos comprise rapacious regimes in this analysis while Malaysia Indonesia and Thailand form ersatz developmental regimes Uniquely China emerges as an evolving hybrid of all three regime types A Region of Regimes concludes by showing how the shifting interactions of these regimes have profoundly shaped the Asia Pacific region and the globe across the postwar era

The concepts of rents and rent seeking are central to any discussion of the processes of economic development Yet conventional models of rent seeking are unable to explain how it can drive decades of rapid growth in some countries and at other times be associated with spectacular economic crises This book argues that the rent seeking framework has to be radically extended by incorporating insights developed by political scientists institutional economists and political economists if it is to explain the anomalous role played by rent seeking in Asian countries It includes detailed analysis of Thailand Malaysia the Philippines the Indian sub continent Indonesia and South Korea This new critical and multidisciplinary approach has important policy implications for the debates over institutional reform in developing countries It brings together leading international scholars in economics and political science and will be of great interest to readers in the social sciences and Asian studies in general Consolidating the Third Wave Democracies Larry Diamond, 1997-08-13

Rugman, Gavin Boyd, 1999 The Pacific is a high growth region comprising East Asian market economy states North America China Australia and New Zealand This book examines the area's rapidly expanding pattern of corporate competition and cooperation which is assisting recoveries from the effects of the East Asian financial crises The authors argue that the uneven but dynamic integration in the Pacific region which was disrupted by the financial crises is continuing in ways that promise resumptions of higher interdependent growth when fundamental adjustments have been completed They emphasize that the regional recovery could be assisted by innovative new efforts to promote wider ranging cooperation in the Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation forum APEC which is committed to regional trade and investment liberalization over the next decade Structural Competitiveness in the Pacific Gavin Boyd, 1996 Trade and investment liberalization in the Pacific has highlighted the importance of structural competitiveness for both corporate executives and national policymakers In Structural Competitiveness in the Pacific a distinguished group of authors contributes to our understanding of patterns of structural competitiveness affecting trade and production links between East Asia and North America Interaction between national policies and corporate strategies has given East Asian states clear advantages over North American competitors The place of the Pacific in the world economy infrastructures and financial structures in the region American and Japanese structural competitiveness sourcing by Japanese and American multinationals in the Pacific as well as structural interdependencies and the potential for collective management across the region are all addressed in this volume Unlike previous comparative work addressing the decline in American competitiveness Structural Competitiveness in the Pacific takes into account the significance of transnational production by international firms and places US problems in a regional comparative context which includes Japan and the industrializing East Asian states The Political Economy of Taiwan's Development Into the 21st Century Gustav Ranis, Sheng-Cheng Hu, Yunpeng Zhu, 1999 Over the past four decades Taiwan has achieved remarkable economic growth In this important book a distinguished group of contributors employs a comparative perspective to explore the reasons behind and the lessons to be learned from Taiwan's success Included in the analysis is an insight into the strategy for economic development the effectiveness of import substitution and the influence of foreign firms in Taiwan's development. The contributors also analyze the implications of development for income distribution and assess the effect of economic growth on inequality, female labor force participation and income mobility. The possibilities for a more even income distribution are then examined within the context of technological progress and a better education system. Finally, the authors explore the institutional foundation for industrialisation and the relationship between democratization and economic development in order to help explain Taiwan's extraordinary achievement. This book will be of great interest to scholars of Asian studies, development studies and international economics.
