Analysing the Trust-Transparency Nexus Ian Stafford,Alistair Cole,Dominic Heinz,2022-03-24 Is transparency a necessary condition to build and restore citizen and civil society trust in governance and democracy Throughout Europe there is a growing demand for effective forms of citizen engagement and decentralisation in policy making to increase trust and engage increasingly diverse populations This volume addresses the relationship between trust and transparency in the context of multi level governance Drawing on fieldwork from the UK France and Germany this comparative analysis examines different efforts to build trust between key actors involved in decision making at the sub national level It outlines the challenges of delivering this agenda and explores the paradox that trust might require transparency yet in some instances transparency may undermine trust Social Care in the UK's Four Nations Catherine Needham, Patrick Hall, 2023-04-27 Two decades have passed since the devolution of social care policy with key differences emerging between the UK's four systems but what impact have these differences had This book presents for the first time research on the perspectives of social care policy makers on the four systems in which they operate and the ways in which they borrow from one another Drawing on extensive interviews with national and local policy makers across the UK the book raises vital questions about the role of standardisation and differentiation in social care concluding that when given equal capacity to reform their respective systems the regimes in each nation may take radically different shapes Chapter 4 and chapter 7 are available Open Access under CC BY NC ND licence Health Politics in Europe Ellen M. Immergut, Karen M. Anderson, Camilla Devitt, Tamara Popic, 2021-06-02 Health Politics in Europe A Handbook is a major new reference work which provides historical background and up to date information and analysis on health politics and health systems throughout Europe In particular it captures developments that have taken place since the end of the Cold War a turning point for many European health systems with most post communist transition countries privatizing their state run health systems and many Western European health systems experimenting with new public management and other market oriented health reforms Following three introductory stage setting chapters the handbook offers country cases divided into seven regional sections each of which begins with a short regional outlook chapter that highlights the region's common characteristics and divergent paths taken by the separate countries including comparative data on health system financing healthcare access and the political salience of health Each regional section contains at least one detailed main case followed by shorter treatments of the other countries in the region Country chapters feature a historical overview focusing on the country's progression through a series of political regimes and the consequences of this history for the health system an overview of the institutions and functioning of the contemporary health system and a political narrative tracing the politics of health policy since 1989 This political narrative the core of each country case examines key health reforms in order to understand the political motivations and dynamics behind them and their impact on public opinion and political legitimacy The handbook's systematic structure makes it useful for country specific cross national and topical research and analysis

Sustainable Development and Subnational Governments H. Bruyninckx, S. Happaerts, K. van den Brande, 2012-04-26 This book highlights the importance of the subnational level of governance in relation to sustainable development exploring how subnational governments have taken up the challenge to design sustainable development policies and their involvement in international decision making on sustainable development Devolution, Law Making and the Constitution Robert Hazell, Richard Rawlings, 2005 Law making is a primary function of government and how well the three devolved UK legislatures exercise this function will be a crucial test of the whole devolution project This book provides the first systematic study and authoritative data to start that assessment It represents the fruits of a four year collaboration between top constitutional lawyers from Scotland Wales and Northern Ireland and leading researchers in UCL's Constitution Unit The book opens with detailed studies of law making in the period 1999-2004 in the Scottish Parliament and the Assemblies in Wales and Northern Ireland and how they interact with Westminster Later contributions look at aspects of legislative partnership in the light of the UK's strongly asymmetric devolutionary development and also explain the unexpected impact of devolution on the courts Individual chapters focus on various constitutional aspects of law making examining the interplay of continuity and change in political legal and administrative practice and the competing pressures for convergence and divergence between the different parliaments and assemblies This book is essential reading for academics and students in law and in politics and for anyone interested in the constitutional and legal aspects of UK devolution not least the practitioners and policymakers in London Edinburgh Cardiff and Belfast

Devolution in Practice 2006 John Adams, Katie Schmueker, 2005 Delineating Wales Richard Rawlings, 2003 A critical evaluation of the constitutional legal and administrative aspects of devolution in Wales comprising comments on the defects of the present governmental regime and an examination of possible new developments based on extensive research following the first term of the National Assembly of Wales with explanatory textual notes The Economics of Devolution British Association for the Advancement of Science. Section F (Economics), 1978 Conference arranged to discuss the economic implications of the Scotland and Wales Bill 1977 which had already died an untimely and not particularly dignified death by the time the meeting took place p i Devolution, 1974*
