Landes,Richard A. Posner,1987 Written by a lawyer and an economist this is the first full length economic study of tort law the body of law that governs liability for accidents and for intentional wrongs such as battery and defamation Landes and Posner propose that tort law is best understood as a system for achieving an efficient allocation of resources to safety that on the whole rules and doctrines of tort law encourage the optimal investment in safety by potential injurers and potential victims The book contains both a comprehensive description of the major doctrines of tort law and a series of formal economic models used to explore the economic properties of these doctrines All the formal models are translated into simple commonsense terms so that the math less reader can follow the text without difficulty legal jargon is also avoided for the sake of economists and other readers not trained in the law Although the primary focus is on explaining existing doctrines rather than on exploring their implementation by juries insurance adjusters and other real world actors the book has obvious pertinence to the ongoing controversies over damage awards insurance rates and availability and reform of tort law in fact it is an essential prerequisite to sound reform Among other timely topics the authors discuss punitive damage awards in

Liability Rules in Patent Law Daniel Krauspenhaar, 2014-10-06 The primary purpose of a patent law system should be to enhance economic efficiency in particular by providing incentives for making inventions The conventional wisdom is that patents should therefore be strictly exclusive rights Moreover in practice patent owners are almost never forced to give up their right to exclude others and receive only a certain amount of remuneration with for instance compulsory licensing Other economically interesting patent law objectives however include the transfer and dissemination of knowledge Mechanisms exist by which the patent owner decides if he or she would prefer exclusive or non exclusive rights for instance the opportunity to declare the willingness to license and create patent pools But it is questionable whether these mechanisms are sufficient and efficient enough in view of the existence of patent trolls and other problems This work challenges the conventional wisdom to a certain extent and makes proposals for improvements
