

NCERT Solutions for Class 11 Economics Chapter 81. Explain the term infrastructure.

Infrastructure refers to the basic or core supporting system which helps an economy to function properly. The infrastructure consists of roads, communication, transport facilities, industries, bridges, dams, electricity, hospitals, and schools. These facilitate economic development by encouraging activities like investment and production.

2. Explain the two categories into which infrastructure is divided. How are both interdependent?

Infrastructure is broadly divided into two categories as follows:

1. Economic Infrastructure: Economic infrastructure consists of components that are helpful in production and distribution. The productivity of the economy is raised through the quality of resources and which serves as a support system for the growth of the economy. Some examples of economic infrastructure are communication, transportation, energy, and financial institutions. A developed economic infrastructure will pave the way for a better economy.
2. Social Infrastructure: Social infrastructure strives to enhance the quality of human capital. It includes hospitals, housing facilities, educational institutions and nursing homes. The presence of social infrastructure helps in improving human productivity which improves the standards of living.

Economic infrastructure and social infrastructure are complementary to each other. Economic infrastructure works for economic growth, while social infrastructure aims to enhance the quality of life. Both these have a positive effect on the prosperity of the nation.

3. How do infrastructure facilities boost production?

Infrastructure helps production in the following ways:

1. If agriculture has no irrigation facilities, it has to become dependent on monsoon rains which can cause less productivity and, as a result, less crop production.
2. Industrial production requires the use of technology, machinery and proper equipment for efficient production and transport services to deliver the final goods to market. Hence, a weak infrastructure without any such facilities will not be able to boost production.
