Eco-Neurobiology, and How the Environment Shapes Our Brains Andreas M. Grabrucker, 2019-10-23
Eco-neurobiology is a field of neuroscience that investigates how environmental factors impact the brain through development and aging. This book takes the reader on a journey through the most recent findings in this field, covering how non-genetic factors influence our brain and may contribute to the development of disorders as well as the everyday function of our minds. The things we eat, the stressfulness of our lives, and traumatic events all have effects on our brains that we are just beginning to understand.

Concepts in Biology Eldon D. Enger, Frederick C. Ross, David B. Bailey, 2005
Concepts in Biology is a short, student-friendly text organized in a traditional manner. It has very little botany and presents a human-oriented approach to the animal unit. Professors and students appreciate the low cost of this title and that it is written for students who are not biology majors.

Environmental Science Travis P. Wagner, Robert M. Sanford, 2009-01-27
One of the few lab books available in the field. Environmental Science is designed to provide environmental scientists with active learning situations that demonstrate the impacts of interactions between humans and the environment. It encourages readers to reflect on real life conditions and the connection to the environment and sustainability. Emphasis is placed on writing and communication through lab reports, presentations, and real world scenarios. Environmental scientists will be able to apply concepts in the lab and gain a stronger understanding of the field.
