Learning to Detect Phishing Emails ,2006 There are an increasing number of emails purporting to be from a trusted entity that attempt to deceive users into providing account or identity information commonly known as phishing emails Traditional spam filters are not adequately detecting these undesirable emails and this causes problems for both consumers and businesses wishing to do business online From a learning perspective this is a challenging problem At first glance the problem appears to be a simple text classification problem but the classification is confounded by the fact that the class of phishing emails is nearly identical to the class of real emails We propose a new method for detecting these malicious emails called PILFER By incorporating features specifically designed to highlight the deceptive methods used to fool users we are able to accurately classify over 92% of phishing emails while maintaining a false positive rate on the order of 0.1% These results are obtained on a dataset of approximately 860 phishing emails and 6950 non phishing emails The accuracy of PILFER on this dataset is significantly better than that of SpamAssassin a widely used spam filter
