Malnutrition in the 21st Century Lyman W. Vesler,2007 Malnutrition is a general term for the medical condition caused by an improper or insufficient diet It most often refers to undernutrition resulting from inadequate consumption poor absorption or excessive loss of nutrients but the term can also encompass overnutrition resulting from overeating or excessive intake of specific nutrients An individual will experience malnutrition if the appropriate amount of or quality of nutrients comprising a healthy diet are not consumed for an extended period of time An extended period of malnutrition can result in starvation or many other diseases such as scurvy Malnutrition as the lack of sufficient nutrients to maintain healthy bodily functions is typically associated with extreme poverty in economically developing countries It is a common cause of reduced intelligence in parts of the world affected by famine This new book presents leading research from around the world
