

Respiratory System: Frog vs. Human

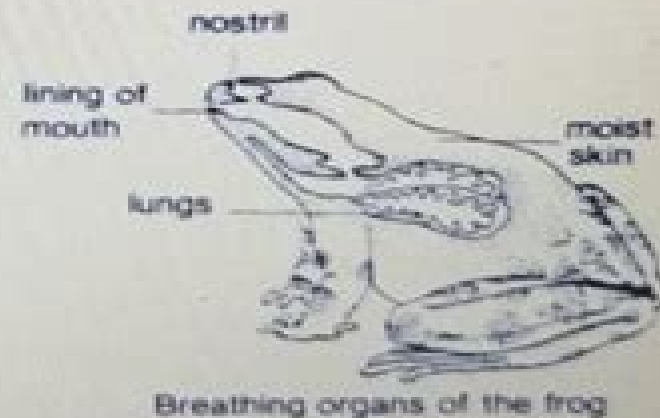

Human

Every cell in your body needs oxygen to live. The respiratory system includes the mouth/nose, trachea, lungs and a few other organs. They all work together to get oxygen into your alveoli which then pass the oxygen to your blood. The circulatory system then takes over and sends all the oxygen to every cell in your body so that it can survive. Carbon dioxide (waste) is taken out of your cells and sent back to the lungs through the blood to breathe out. In this way the respiratory system gets oxygen into your body and gets rid of the carbon dioxide it doesn't want.

Frog

Frog cells need oxygen to survive. Frogs have three different versions of the respiratory system. The first one is similar to a human, with lungs that take in oxygen and send it to the blood. They can also absorb oxygen directly into their lips without opening their mouths. This oxygen also makes its way to the lungs and then the blood. The third way a frog gets oxygen is through its skin. When it is in the water it absorbs oxygen directly from the water into its skin. There are blood vessels called capillaries right next to the skin that take the oxygen and send it on to the cells in the body. All three of these systems are able to release the carbon dioxide waste from the cells back into the air.
