Conference, 1994 Towards a New Primary Curriculum for South Africa Carol A. Macdonald, 1993. Since 1979 Act 90 The Education and Training Act, South Africa's law has stated that an official language, i.e. English or Afrikaans, could be used as the medium of instruction after Std 2 (fourth grade) in black education. Almost without exception, English was chosen by the primary schools. This means that most children are introduced to the new subjects of history, science, and geography through the medium of English. These subjects are encapsulated in textbooks that children find unusable, and teachers have difficulty in understanding. In 1990, the legislation was amended so that the medium of instruction now becomes a matter of negotiation between the Minister of Education and the parents. This negotiation is currently under way in many Department of Education and Training schools. This change of legislation came as a direct result of research carried out over a period of five years on the Threshold Project, 1985-1990. The overt cause of difficulties within the education system would have seemed to be a language policy that traumatises both teachers and pupils. Inadequate time and materials are spent preparing children for a change in the medium of learning, and the curriculum is not developed carefully enough to lead children to an understanding of a large number of abstract concepts by the fifth year of schooling. Resources in Education, 1992 Content-based

Second Language Teaching and Learning Marjorie Hall Haley, Theresa Y. Austin, 2004. This text examines second language pedagogy from two critical fields of literature: psycholinguistics and socio-cultural, offering a fresh perspective on interactive content-based language teaching and learning. Unique in its kind, this highly practical text offers more methodological approaches to teaching in ESL settings than any other book on the market, making it a perfect match for undergraduate pre-service teachers who are learning how to teach ESL students in their classrooms. Novice teachers will have the opportunity to interact with the text, reflect, and consult with colleagues, partners, and classmates by being able to write in the text, revisit those responses, and view video clips on the Companion Website.
