

Writing Assignment Two: Definitional Argument

Words do not have essential properties; that is, they are constructs of the world in which we live. They are dynamic and powerful instruments that evolve over time and vary depending on context. One of the misconceptions of words is that their definitions do not change. Definitions determine what something or someone is—they can result in inclusion and exclusion. They also help us to recognize that classifications change over time and are the result of cultural, social, and political forces that may come and go. So, rather than thinking of definitions as natural and unchanging, definitional arguments allow us to recognize classifications as unnatural and constructed. That is, definitions serve certain agendas at certain times while ignoring or suppressing others.

The definitional essay assigns additional meaning to a given word (often, a word whose definition is under debate), and it argues that the word needs to be understood in an additional way. Your objective is not to do away with the old meaning, but rather to argue that the word also needs to be used and understood in terms of your additional meaning.

Assignment Description:

Main Topic: X is/is not a Y because it has (or does not have) feature A, B, C, and so on.

Write a logos-centered argument that develops a definitional claim of the form “X is/is not a Y,” where Y is a term with a disputed definition. Your argument will have a criteria section in which you develop an extended definition of your Y term, and a match section in which you argue that your X does/does not meet the criteria for Y. You will also conduct research on your topic to help develop your Y criteria and support your argument.

When selecting a topic, you may want to focus on large, national issues, state issues, or issues in pop culture/the media. (Sample topics might include: “President Obama is a conservative,” “alcoholism is not a disease,” “standardized testing is not education,” “NASCAR is a sport,” “Panda Express is not gourmet food,” etc.) It is crucial that you choose a topic that has relevance in today’s world. Also, your topic must make a statement that is not completely accepted.

*In order to construct your definition, you should consult authorities on your controversial word. A dictionary does not have ethos on any particular subject. For example, if you have chosen to extend the definition of “feminist,” you might consult Betty Friedan, Gloria Steinem, Simone de Beauvoir, bell hooks, etc. Encyclopedia Britannica and Merriam-Webster’s English Dictionary are not specialized texts. To simply copy a definition from the dictionary undermines the very nature of this assignment.

Assignment Goals:

- Focus on a specific rhetorical purpose, namely, the writing of a definitional argument
- Explore the multiple facets (ideological, social, cultural, political, economic, historical) of issues and use writing to construct informed, critical positions about these topics
- Identify the kind of ideological work a written text can undertake and how it serves to persuade readers to accept a particular account of an issue as accurate and effective
- Practice developing claims and supporting them with evidence

Definitional Argument Paper:

The Rhetorical Rise and Demise of "Democracy" in Russian Political Discourse Volume Four David Cratis Williams, Marilyn J. Young, Michael K. Launer, 2026-02-10 In this volume we focus on the years following Putin's return to the presidency in 2012. This has been a more active period than his first two terms including the annexation of Crimea and ultimately the invasion of Ukraine. Thus this period may be characterized as the run up to that war. The core issue discussed in this volume is Putin's redefinition of democracy as the foundation of society and government in the Russian Federation. Putin argues for a strong central government in which unity is characterized as the absence of dissent. In so doing, Putin seeks to recast Russian national identity relying on a vision of Russia as the victim of Western aggression. The Argument Handbook K. J. Peters, 2018-11-15 The Argument Handbook is a classroom text for first year composition that is designed to help students understand complex rhetorical situations and navigate the process of transforming private thoughts into persuasive public writing. The book is organized around three key lenses of argumentation that help students focus on the practical challenges of persuasive writing: invention, audience, and authority. Its modular organization makes it easier for students to find what they need and easier for instructors to assign the content that fits their course. The Rhetorical Rise and Demise of "Democracy" in Russian Political Discourse, Volume 3 David Cratis Williams, Marilyn J. Young, Michael K. Launer, 2024-02-20 In Volume Three of this four volume series we examine the rhetorical development that occurred during the first two terms of Vladimir Putin's tenure as president of the Russian Federation. Initially, Putin appeared to follow in the path set by his predecessor Boris Yeltsin, vowing that Russia was at heart a European nation and would be a westward-facing democracy going forward. He even mentioned partnering with the EU and NATO. Eight years later at the 2007 Munich Security Conference, Putin excoriated the West for, in his words, attempting to create a unipolar world in which NATO expansion threatened Russia's security, the United States acted as the world's sole hegemon, and Europe simply followed orders, relinquishing any sense of agency in its own affairs. Graph Structures for Knowledge Representation and Reasoning Madalina Croitoru, Sebastian Rudolph, Nic Wilson, John Howse, Olivier Corby, 2012-05-27 This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed post-conference proceedings of the Second International Workshop on Graph Structures for Knowledge Representation and Reasoning (GKR 2011) held in Barcelona, Spain, in July 2011 as a satellite event of IJCAI 2011, the 22nd International Joint Conference on Artificial Intelligence. The 7 revised full papers presented together with 1 invited paper were carefully reviewed and selected from 12 submissions. The papers feature current research involved in the development and application of graph-based knowledge representation formalisms and reasoning techniques and investigate further developments of knowledge representation and reasoning graph-based techniques. Topics addressed are such as Bayesian networks, semantic networks, conceptual graphs, formal concept analysis, CP-nets, GAI-nets, Euler diagrams, existential graphs, all of which have been successfully used in a number of applications: semantic Web recommender systems, bioinformatics, etc.
