Electrical Wiring Tomtom XI:

Practical Electric Wiring (Classic Reprint) John M. Sharp, 2016-07-31 Excerpt from Practical Electric Wiring Pliers are made in many different styles but those most used by a wireman are side cutter long nosed and combination gas pliers The Side cutter is used for cutting and splicing wires and general use The 7 inch is the most popular length for this class of work The long nosed is used chiefly for reaching nuts screws etc in places out of reach of the ordinary plier The combination gas plier is used for turning lock nuts bushings and small pipes The hammers used are nail and machinists ball and peen Nail hammers with straight claws are sometimes preferred as they may be used in notching joists The machinists ball and peen is used by the wireman for drilling holes in brick concrete etc Braces should be either a ratchet or a corner brace The ratchet permits boring in close places where the handle can be rotated only part of a turn The corner brace allows faster boring in a corner About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
