Communion Town A City In Ten Chapters:

Communion Town Sam Thompson, 2013-12-03 Longlisted for the Man Booker Prize 2012 Thompson is a new writer working out what he can do and realizing that he can do anything The Telegraph Each of us conjures our own city one of many incarnations a place throbbing with so many layers meanings and hidden corners cannot be the same for any two citizens Communion Town calls to mind David Mitchell's Ghostwritten Italo Calvino's Invisible Cities and China Miéville's The City The City but is uniquely its own This incandescent novel maps an imaginary city and explores the lives of its outcasts and scapegoats Each chapter is told from the perspective of a different citizen defining the city itself as a character both protagonist and antagonist and each is told in a different genre from a hardboiled detective story to steampunk to gothic horror displaying the great range of Sam Thompson's literary ability As the novel unfolds in different neighborhoods we encounter a lovelorn folksinger a repressed detective a slaughterhouse worker a lost tourist a bon vivant and a ghost From their lonely voices we gather the many faceted story of the city a place imagined differently by each citizen as he or she searches for connection transformation or escape

Communion Town Sam Thompson, 2012-07-05 The Man Booker longlisted novel is a meditation on how each of us conjures up our own city

Refractions of Mathematics Education Christer Bergsten, Bharath Sriraman, 2015-05-01 The diversity of research in mathematics education has been addressed as both a problem and a strength When manifested through adherence to different intellectual roots and theoretical orientations diversions constitute refractions of mathematics education The collection and analysis of empirical data in a study are by necessity refracted through the specific analytical lens employed as well as the aim of the study itself Refractions can also refer to looking at old phenomena through new lenses The chapters in this book are refracted through philosophical political mathematical and personal lenses by distinguished authors in the field addressing issues about the elusive experience of doing mathematics purification of texts refractions mathematics and ethnomathematics political messages in textbook tasks mathematics education policy debate the political in mathematics education research philosophy and mathematics meanings and representations identity of mathematical modeling and dilemmas in the teaching of calculus An ancient Sanskrit adage states that Knowledge is something that grows when shared but shrinks when hoarded Academics engaged in the generation of new Knowledge are blessed with both the time and the freedom to engage in pursuits that allow for intellectual pleasure As a phenomenon of the Zeitgeist many have succumbed to the increased corporatization of academic work engaging in activities for monetary and self advancement purposes Are there any real intellectuals left in academia?
