policymakers regulators and government officials who are involved in regulating managing and developing aerodromes in Asian countries and professionals in aviation industry including airport operators airlines aviation consultants and legal practitioners Flying in the Face of Criminalization Sofia Michaelides-Mateou, Andreas Mateou, 2016-04-15 Two parallel investigations take place after every aviation accident one technical one judicial The former must be conducted with the sole intention of making safety recommendations to prevent the recurrence of similar accidents The judicial investigation however has the intention of identifying those parties that have been at fault and to apportion blameworthiness for criminal and civil liability Consequently this results in a predicament for those parties that have been identified as having played a role in the accident a dilemma between not supplying information aimed at enhancing safety and preventing future accidents and on the other hand supplying such information which may possibly be used against them in subsequent criminal prosecution The situation is compounded by inconsistent approaches between different legal systems aviation professionals may find themselves faced with criminal charges in one country but not in another and they may also be unsure as to whether statements given during the technical investigation could be used against them in a court of law Aviation safety is to a large extent built upon the trust placed by pilots ATCOs and other aviation professionals in the process of accident investigation This book examines the growing trend to criminalize these same people following an accident investigation and considers the implications this has for aviation safety reports analytically and reveals the critical information hidden therein that could avert a full blown accident or disaster She applies an innovative analytical technique multidimensional analysis of incident reports MAIR using Quantification Method III to validate the results and focus upon individual components identified within the causal chain of events that precede an accident She advocates wider acceptance and use of the Incident Report Analysing System ideally administered by a neutral and independent body to help prevent accidents not only in aviation but in relation to all complex systems such as nuclear power plants Serious Accidents and Human Factors offers aviation industry personnel as well as those involved more generally with safety risk assessment and accident prevention in other industries a comprehensive understanding of the accident causation chain events contributing to that chain and a method for identifying and eliminating causal factors in a pro active way Copublished with Professional Engineering Publishing For orders from Europe and the Middle East please contact Professional Engineering Publishing tel 44 1284 763 277 or fax 44 1284 704 006      Operation of Aircraft International Civil Aviation Organization.
