Lab Activity - Making Connections - A Lab Activity for the Living Environment Course

STATE REQUIRED LAB ACTIVITY

Discovering Connections

As they make observations, scientists are always looking for patterns in the natural world. For instance, researchers have observed that pregnant women who smoke cigarettes have a higher incidence of low-birth weight babies and that people with high-fat diets have a greater risk of developing heart disease. Many similar medical discoveries are a result of the patterns that can be observed when studying people and their lifestyles.

Discovering and explaining connections is one of the basic methods by which our knowledge of the world advances. It is what science is all about! Sometimes the connections are not what we expect or would predict, and sometimes we may have a hard time explaining the connections. Nevertheless, that is how science makes progress.

Safety

Safety is important during any laboratory activity. Although no dangerous chemicals or heat sources are used in this investigation be sure you are careful and behave responsibly.

Another concern is health. If you have health reasons for not performing the exercises called for in this activity, tell your teacher so that other arrangements can be made for you to successfully complete the activity. If you are excused from gym class for medical reasons, for example, or if you have asthma, tell your teacher about it before beginning the laboratory activity.

Part 1: How Does Muscle Fatigue Affect Performance?

A condition known as muscle fatigue occurs when certain waste products of muscle cell activity build up in cells. Until these waste chemicals are removed, the fatigue will continue.

Complete the Following Activity

Hold a spring-type clothespin or binder clip between your thumb and index finger. Pinch the ends together completely (until the two ends touch) and release them. Do this as rapidly as possible for 1 minute.

- Record the number of times you squeezed the clothespin or clip in one minute: _____
- After you record the data, squeeze the clothespin or clip for another minute (use the same procedure above and same hand).
- Record the number of times you squeezed the clothespin in one minute: _____

1. Some people are able to squeeze the clothespin or clip more times in a minute than others. Suggest a possible explanation for this: _____

2. Could you do as many on the third trial as you did on the first trial: _____
Provide a biological explanation for these results: _____
