Civic Education in the Elementary Grades Dana Mitra, Stephanie C. Serriere, 2015 As former elementary school teachers the authors focus on what is possible in schools rather than a romantic vision of what schools could be Based on a 5 year study of an elementary school this book shows how civic engagement can be purposive and critical a way to encourage young people to examine their environment to notice and question injustices and to take action to make a difference in their communities and school Focusing on the intersection of student voice and critical inquiry the book describes how to embed civic engagement into curriculum school decision making processes and whole school activities Chapters provide an overview of what research has demonstrated about civic engagement at the classroom school and community levels including detailed descriptions of activities and lessons for practice Classroom teachers school principals community members and teacher educators can use this resource to foster a deeper richer understanding of what is entailed in civic life Book Features A vivid portrait of a typical public school that wants to do more than teach to the test An examination of the conditions that enable young people to participate in democratic practices including identifying and questioning injustices Concrete examples of student voice and critical inquiry in classroom contexts Practices and activities that encourage children to get along with others exchange perspectives and work across differences Offers a suggestive range of evidence that high quality civic engagement initiatives can enhance students academic social and emotional engagement It reveals the nitty gritty of how experienced teachers can enable children who are immersed in meaningful civic work also to engage more deeply with mathematical problem solving peer collaboration literacy and social studies learning and development of empathy and mutual trust From the Foreword by Meira Levinson Mitra and Serriere show us not only that elementary aged children are capable of civic engagement but how such engagement can be nurtured in the classroom Children can be active civic participants this book demonstrates both the power of this idea and how we might accomplish this essential task Beth C Rubin Rutgers University Becoming Active Citizens Tom Driscoll, Shawn W.

Teaching Civic Literacy Projects Shira Eve Epstein, 2014-09-01 This practical resource shows teachers how to enact robust forms of civic education in today's schools Both instructive and thought provoking it will inspire teachers to craft curricula addressing a wide range of genuine civic problems such as those related to racial discrimination environmental damage and community health Dividing civic literacy projects into three key phases problem identification problem exploration and action the author provides concrete examples from upper elementary middle and high school classrooms to illustrate and analyze how each phase can unfold The projects ultimately provide opportunities for youth to participate in civic life while they develop essential literacy skills associated with reading writing and speaking The final chapter outlines a curriculum design process that will result in coherent and meaningful civic literacy projects driven by clear goals It includes practical tools such as a sample unit timeline an assessment chart and student worksheets that can be modified for immediate use

Civic Education in the Age of Mass Migration Angela M. Banks, 2021-08-13 This important book offers a more inclusive approach to preparing students to be responsible participants in a democratic society Civic education generally operates through the lens of citizenship where students learn what good citizenship is and what good citizens do Yet the citizenship lens fails to identify the wide range of school children and their families who participate in economic political and social life Civic Education in the Age of Mass Migration examines the exclusionary aspects of citizenship and offers democratic societies an alternative approach that includes all long term residents regardless of citizenship and immigration status Banks reimagines a civic education curriculum that gives students the knowledge and skills they will need to assist the United States in becoming a more perfect union Book Features A brief overview of the history of civic education and why citizenship status and immigration status should be explicitly addressed An examination of the economic political and social forces shaping immigration law A new way to conceptualize membership based on three principles popular sovereignty participation and the jus nexi principle Classroom activities and discussion questions to help civic educators incorporate the idea of citizenship boundaries into their curriculum

Civic Education for Diverse Citizens in Global Times Beth C. Rubin, James M. Giarelli, 2013-10-11 This book explores four interrelated themes rethinking civic education in light of the diversity of U S society re examining these notions in an increasingly interconnected global context re considering the ways that civic education is researched and practiced and taking stock of where we are currently through use of an historical understanding of civic education There is a gap between theory and practice in social studies education while social studies researchers call for teachers to nurture skills of analysis decision making and participatory citizenship students in social studies classrooms are often found participating in passive tasks e g quiz and test taking worksheet completion listening to lectures rather than engaging critically with the curriculum Civic Education for Diverse Citizens in Global Times directed at students researchers and practitioners of social studies education seeks to engage this divide by offering a collection of work that puts practice at the center of research and theory

A Guide to Readings in Civic Education ... Olive Thompson Cowell,1924 A Guide to Readings in Civic Education Olive Thompson,1922 Perceptions of Implementation of Civic Education Curriculum in a Suburban School District Sheena Rachel Jacob,2020 The purpose of this qualitative research study was to explore and develop an understanding of teachers and coordinator perceptions of a civic education and to analyze how the program was implemented in a suburban school district This qualitative case study explored the experiences of one school district s civic education program and was informed by interviews observations and documents The researcher interviewed a K 12 social studies coordinator and two teachers The researcher also observed four civic education classes within the school district Finally the researcher analyzed documents that comprised the syllabus for the 12th grade Civic courses student work from 12th grade Civics courses and activities and lessons from 5th grade classes The specific research questions were 1 What are the perceptions of the implementation of a civic education program for the K 12 social studies curriculum in a suburban school district and 2 How is the civic education program in K 12 social studies implemented The study conclusions identified the following themes civic engagement which incorporates student activities within allotted instruction time and outside of school time that promotes students active participation and collaboration with local and school officials on issues concerning students and community civic identity and commitment which involves implementing a program where all stakeholders building and central administrators teachers community members are all committed and supportive civic knowledge which involves the ability to understand what civics means and to implement the curriculum within the time allotted for the subject social studies to be taught and civic contexts structures which involves having students demonstrate the ability and commitment to collaboratively work across and within community contexts and structures to achieve a civic goal From the study s conclusions it is evident that the allocation of appropriate and sufficient resources in addition to district and community support is essential to ensure that civic education is successfully implemented in K 12 schools Future research can add to these findings by exploring how districts can implement a K 12 civic education curriculum for all students including analyzing short and long term effects of implementing such a program at the local state and national levels
