

Dialectical Journal—Kate Chopin's The Awakening

Free Dictionary defines dialectic as “the art or practice of arriving at the truth by the exchange of logical arguments.” The Dialectical Journal allows students to actively read and engage with the text. Essentially, this is a double-entry journal designed so that you can record the conversations you have with yourself as you read. This will allow you to pause and reflect on the reading you have been assigned. This process will take you longer than you are used to, but you will find that this will strengthen your reading and our class discussions. We will be able to dig deeper and find hidden meanings and treasures in the author's words.

How to set up your journal:

1. Divide a page lengthwise into two columns.
2. At the top, write the date, the title of the novel, chapter(s) assigned, and the author.
3. In the left column, write TEXT at the top and then share the quotes complete with page number.
4. Then in the right column, write your REACTION at the top of the entry and share your thoughts and/or explain your argument here.

The following are ideas to help you begin. Not all areas need to be addressed in each journal entry. To receive full credit, every reading assignment should include at least 6-8 entries!

TEXT	REACTION
Share full quote with page number here.	When responding to a passage, please focus on these points and questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. What is the author trying to express about the character, time period, beliefs, values, etc.?2. Analyze the vocabulary used in this section. Why does the author choose this word in particular?3. Compare/contrast the actions of this character to another character from another work.4. Analyze the author's craft, starting with but not limited to:<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Is he/she remaining true to the character?• Are the situations a true reflection of the time?

Radiant Emptiness Yaroslav Komarovski, 2020 In Radiant Emptiness Yaroslav Komarovski offers an annotated translation of three seminal works on the nature and relationship of the Yogacara and Madhyamaka schools of Buddhist thought by Serdok Penchen Shakya Chokden 1428 1507 There has never been consensus on the meaning of Madhyamaka and Yogacara and for more than fifteen centuries the question of correct identification and interpretation of these systems has remained unsolved Chokden proposes to accept Yogacara and Madhyamaka on their own terms as compatible systems despite their considerable divergences and reciprocal critiques His major objective is to bring Yogacara back from obscurity present it in a positive light and correct its misrepresentation by earlier thinkers He thus serves as a major resource for scholarly research on the historical and philosophical development of Yogacara and Madhyamaka Until recently Shakya Chokden s works have been largely unavailable Only in 1975 were his collected writings published in twenty four volumes in Bhutan Since then his ingenious works on Buddhist history philosophy and logic have attracted increasing scholarly attention Komarovski s research on Shakya Chokden s innovative writings most of which are still available only in the original Tibetan revises early misinterpretations by addressing some of the most complicated aspects of his thought While focusing on his unique interpretation of Yogacara and Madhyamaka the book also shows that his thought provides an invaluable base to challenge and expand our understanding of such topics as epistemology contemplative practice the relationship between intellectual study and meditative experience and other key questions that occupy contemporary scholarship on Buddhism and religion in general
