Deep Fried Turkey - A Cajun Tradition

For years, deep frying turkey and other poultry has been a closely kept secret of Cajun chefs and world famous Cajun restaurants. Deep-frying with injectable marinades is the best tasting, most exciting way to prepare turkey and other poultry. The hot oil seals the skin on contact, sealing in the natural juices and flavor while sealing out the oil, making the meat moist, tender and succulent. Eastman Outdoors Flavored marinades are spiced with Tabasco® brand Pepper Sauce and provide a variety of great flavors steeped in the southern tradition, from mild Bayou Buttery Gold to the bold and hot Cajun Garlic Anchoise.

Cooking is as simple as injecting the marinade with Eastman's Monster Marinade Injector, then lowering the bird into hot oil for 3 1/2 minutes per pound. No other cooking method can give you moist, succulent turkey in such a short amount of time. The aroma and exciting, bold flavors will have your guests begging for seconds and thirds.

Turkey Preparation

Eastman Outdoors Deep Fry Turkey Pots and propane burners can cook a bird weighing up to 14 pounds. Turkey must be completely thawed and dry inside and out. Neck and giblets must also be removed.

To determine the correct amount of oil to use when frying, place the turkey on the stand and place in the pot. Add water until it reaches 1 to 2 inches above the turkey. Remove the turkey and note the water level. Pour out the water and dry the pot and turkey thoroughly.

Flavor Injection

The Eastman Outdoors 12-port Monster Marinade Injector is specially designed for injecting marinades into turkeys and other poultry. Diagram A indicates the suggested places where the marinade should be injected for optimum flavor distribution. Although you can simply inject marinade into the meat by puncturing the skin, this results in the marinade and natural juices leaking from the bird during cooking. For best results, carefully lift the skin from the meat and insert the needle completely into the meat under the skin rather than through it. This will keep the marinade and natural juices from leaking out of the bird, as the skin is sealed over the meat, sealing in the flavor. For maximum flavor, re-insert the needle into the meat in several directions in the same hole, as this will direct the marinade in different areas of the meat. Use as much marinade as you like, depending upon the amount of flavor you desire. The more you use, the more robust the flavor.

Once marinated the turkey can be immediately cooked or put back in the refrigerator.

Deep Frying Instructions

When ready to begin cooking, add oil to the turkey pot until it reaches the noted water level. Vegetable oil, cottonseed oil and other high-flash-point cooking oils can be used, but peanut oil is recommended because it cooks the best, has the highest flash point, is healthier and stays clear for a longer period of time.

Turn on the burner and heat the oil to 325 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit. Depending on the oil and burner used, this actually takes between 15-20 minutes. Use Eastman Outdoors' long stemmed deep fry thermometer to prevent overheating and ensure proper cooking temperatures.

BE SURE TO READ ALL WARNINGS AND CAREFULLY FOLLOW PROPER OPERATING INSTRUCTIONS PROVIDED WITH YOUR EASTMAN OUTDOORS PROPANE BURNER. FAILURE TO FOLLOW THE SAFETY WARNINGS AND INSTRUCTIONS PROPERLY COULD RESULT IN FIRE OR EXPLOSION, WHICH COULD CAUSE PROPERTY DAMAGE, PERSONAL INJURY OR DEATH.

DO NOT STUFF TURKEYS BEFORE DEEP-FRYING. DO NOT USE LID WHEN DEEP-FRYING TO AVOID SPILLING. SPILLING, YOU MAY USE A SCREEN SLUSH COVER. ALWAYS KEEP A FIRE EXTINGUISHER NEARBY IN CASE OF EMERGENCIES.

Once the oil has reached the correct temperature, place the turkey on the turkey stand. Using the lift hook provided with your turkey pot, SLOWLY lower the turkey into the oil. Insert the turkey partially and carefully then remove, repeating the process further, approximately three or four times until the turkey is completely submerged. This does two things; first, it seals the turkey and second, it boils out the excess moisture and helps prevent the oil from boiling over. When placing the turkey in the oil and while cooking, oil will flow through the inside of the bird like a fountain. Some of the hot oil could splatter. Wear a long sleeve shirt, thick barbecue gloves and eye protection at all times. You may wish to wear a cooking apron to prevent oil from splattering onto your clothing.

When the turkey is placed in the oil, the temperature will drop. Slowly bring the oil temperature back to 325-350 degrees Fahrenheit. Never place the lid on the pot while cooking. This will cause the oil to get too hot.

Whole turkeys require approximately 3 1/2 minutes per pound to cook. When the correct cooking time has elapsed, use the lift hook to carefully remove the turkey and stand. Lift the turkey above the oil and hold it long enough to allow excess oil to drain before removing it from the pot. Use a meat thermometer to check the temperature of the meat. The breast should register at least 170 degrees Fahrenheit and the thigh should be around 180 degrees Fahrenheit.

Place the turkey on absorbent towels for a few minutes to cool. Carve, serve and enjoy!
