Factor Analysis Andrew L. Comrey, Howard B. Lee, 2013-11-12 The goal of this book is to foster a basic understanding of factor analytic techniques so that readers can use them in their own research and critically evaluate their use by other researchers Both the underlying theory and correct application are emphasized The theory is presented through the mathematical basis of the most common factor analytic models and several methods used in factor analysis On the application side considerable attention is given to the extraction problem the rotation problem and the interpretation of factor analytic results Hence readers are given a background of understanding in the theory underlying factor analysis and then taken through the steps in executing a proper analysis from the initial problem of design through choice of correlation coefficient factor extraction factor rotation factor interpretation and writing up results This revised edition includes introductions to newer methods such as confirmatory factor analysis and structural equation modeling that have revolutionized factor analysis in recent years To help remove some of the mystery underlying these newer more complex methods the introductory examples utilize EQS and LISREL Updated material relating to the validation of the Comrey Personality Scales also has been added Finally program disks for running factor analyses on either an IBM compatible PC or a mainframe with FORTRAN capabilities are available The intended audience for this volume includes talented but mathematically unsophisticated advanced undergraduates graduate students and research workers seeking to acquire a basic understanding of the principles supporting factor analysis Disks are available in 5 25 and 3 5 formats for both mainframe programs written in Fortran and IBM PCs and compatibles running a math co processor The Easy Guide to Repertory Grids Devi Jankowicz, 2004 Publisher Description Advanced Quantitative Data Analysis Duncan Cramer, 2003 What do advanced statistical techniques do When is it appropriate to use them How are they carried out and reported There are a variety of statistical techniques used to analyse quantitative data that masters students advanced undergraduates and researchers in the social sciences are expected to be able to understand and undertake This book explains these techniques when it is appropriate to use them how to carry them out and how to write up the results Most books which describe these techniques do so at too advanced or technical a level to be readily understood by many students who need to use them In contrast the following features characterise this book concise and accessible introduction to calculating and interpreting advanced statistical techniques use of a small data set of simple numbers specifically designed to illustrate the nature and manual calculation of the most important statistics in each technique succinct illustration of writing up the results of these analyses minimum of mathematical statistical and technical notation and annotated bibliography and glossary of key concepts Commonly used software is introduced and instructions are presented for carrying out analyses and interpreting the output using the computer programs of SPSS Release 11 for Windows and a version of LISREL 8 51 which is freely available online Designed as a textbook for postgraduate and advanced undergraduate courses across the socio behavioural sciences this book will also serve as a personal reference for researchers in disciplines such as sociology and psychology

Assessing Soldier Individual Differences to Enable Tailored Training, 2010 The operational tempo of the United States Army has increased dramatically placing a premium upon quality of training For decades researchers have explored the extent to which training quality can be improved by tailoring training defined as assessing learning relevant individual differences and assigning learners to optimal learning conditions based on those differences Before informed tailored training in U S Army institutional settings can take place researchers must know what individual differences IDs are related to course performance Instructors from the Warrant Officer Candidate School WOCS at Fort Rucker Alabama were interviewed to determine what IDs in their experience predict academic success in the WOCS course Based on those interviews three IDs dimensions initiative attention to detail and metacognition were chosen Other IDs were selected by the research team on the basis of hypothesized relationships between experience and course demands A set of instruments measuring those IDs as well as demographic information was constructed and given to the instructors to review Upon instructor approval the packet was administered to a 5 week and a 7 week WOCS class total n 157 The student responses were then statistically compared with end of course grades to determine the predictive validity of the instruments For the 5 week class only one demographic variable and none of the instructor provided IDs correlated with academic performance For the 7 week class two of the demographic items and two of the instructor provided IDs predicted academic performance However correlations between the predictor and criterion variables would have to be stronger to serve as a basis for tailoring training On the other hand the demographic items are easy to administer and the gain in prediction may be judged worth the effort Possible reasons for the moderate predictive power of the individual differences are proposed DTIC
