Doing Documentary Work Book:

Doing Documentary Work Robert Coles, 1998 Investigates the nature of documentary work arguing that the work of an observer is not only to represent but also to interpret reality and uses examples from literature and photography to show how the observer's personal frame of reference has influenced his or her work

Ways of Reading Words and Images David Bartholomae, Tony Petrosky, 2003-01-09 Adapting the methods of the much admired and extremely successful composition anthology Ways of Reading this brief reader offers eight substantial essays about visual culture illustrated with evocative photographs along with demanding and innovative apparatus that engages students in conversations about the power of images

Doing Documentary Work Robert Coles, 1997 He discusses literary documentaries James Agee's searching portrait of Depression era tenant farmers Let Us Now Praise Famous Men and George Orwell's passionate description of England's coal miners The Road to Wigan Pier Like many documentarians Coles argues Agee and Orwell did not try to be objective but instead showered praise on the noble poor and contempt on the more privileged classes including themselves for exploiting these workers Documentary photographs can be equally revealing about the observer Coles demonstrates how famous photographers such as Walker Evans and Dorothea Lange edited and cropped their pictures to produce a desired effect

Photography as Activism Michelle Bogre, 2012-11-12 You want to look through the lens of your camera and change the world You want to capture powerful moments in one click that will impact the minds of other people Photographic images are one of the most popular tools used to advocate for social and environmental awareness This can be as close to home as drug use prostitution or pollution or as far away as famine war and the plight of refugees and migrant workers One well known example of an activist photographer would be landscape photographer Ansel Adams who trudged to Washington with stunning images of the American west to advocate protecting these areas His images and testimony were instrumental in creating the National Park System and garnering specific protection for Yellowstone National Park More recently Robert Glenn Ketchum's images of Alaska's Arctic National Wildlife Refuge raised awareness of why this area should be protected Nigel Barker's seal photographs advocates against seal clubbing What is your cause and how can you use your camera to make the world a better place This book provides a comprehensive theory of and history of photography as activism It also includes interviews with contemporary photographers It is a call to action for young photographers to become activists a primer of sorts with advice for how to work with NGOs and non profits how to work safely in conflict zones and with suggestions for distribution on websites blogs and interactive agencies
