

5. Projectile Motion

Study Design

- investigate and analyse theoretically and practically the motion of projectiles near Earth's surface, including a qualitative description of the effects of air resistance

Introduction

A projectile is a body that has been thrown or projected, and is travelling freely through the air. While undergoing projectile motion the object is under the constant unbalanced force of gravity. When we study projectile motion, no consideration is given to the force projecting the body or to what happens when it lands. Air resistance is considered to be negligible (in quantitative questions), but can be taken into consideration in qualitative questions. The projectile will travel either: vertically or inclined, depending on the initial angle of projection.

The vertical and horizontal motions are treated independently. Usually the vertical motion is treated first, since it determines how long the projectile is in the air.

For both the vertical and inclined projectiles:

- the only force acting is the weight, ie. the bodies are in free fall
- acceleration is always 9.8 ms^{-2} downward, (including the point C)
- the instantaneous velocity is tangential to the path
- the total energy (KE & PE) is constant
- between any two points $\Delta KE = -\Delta PE$
- paths are symmetrical for time eg. $\Delta t \text{ (A to B)} = \Delta t \text{ (D to E)}$;
- paths are symmetrical for speed eg. speed at A = speed at E; speed at B = speed at D.
- for vertical motion $v_c = 0$, for inclined motion $v_c \neq 0$.

Inclined or oblique projections

- the only force acting is vertically down, so the acceleration and change in velocity are vertical.
- horizontally there is no component of force, so constant horizontal velocity.
- Maximum range is when angle of projection is 45°

Programs for Advanced Study of Mathematics and Science in American High Schools, 2002-08-06 This book takes a fresh look at programs for advanced studies for high school students in the United States with a particular focus on the Advanced Placement and the International Baccalaureate programs and asks how advanced studies can be significantly improved in general It also examines two of the core issues surrounding these programs they can have a profound impact on other components of the education system and participation in the programs has become key to admission at selective institutions of higher education By looking at what could enhance the quality of high school advanced study programs as well as what precedes and comes after these programs this report provides teachers parents curriculum developers administrators college science and mathematics faculty and the educational research community with a detailed assessment that can be used to guide change within advanced study programs Engaging with Contemporary Challenges through Science

Education Research Olivia Levrini, Giulia Tasquier, Tamer G. Amin, Laura Branchetti, Mariana Levin, 2021-09-24 This book starts with the premise that beauty can be an engine of transformation and authentic engagement in an increasingly complex world It presents an organized picture of highlights from the 13th European Science Education Research Association Conference ESERA 2019 held in Bologna Italy The collection includes contributions that discuss contemporary issues such as climate change multiculturalism and the flourishing of new interdisciplinary areas of investigation including the application of cognitive neuroscience artificial intelligence and digital humanities to science education research It also highlights learners difficulties engaging with socio scientific issues in a digital and post truth era The volume demonstrates that deepening our understanding is the preferred way to address these challenges and that science education has a key role to play in this effort In particular the book advances the argument that the deep and novel character of these challenges requires a collective search for new narratives and languages an expanding knowledge base and new theoretical perspectives and methods of research The book provides a contemporary picture of science education research and looks to the theoretical and practical societal challenges of the future El-Hi Textbooks and Serials in Print , 2003

Zubrowski, 2009-08-14 Mountaineers Rock Climbers and Science Educators Around the 1920s rock climbing separated from mountaineering to become a separate sport At that time European climbers developed new equipment and techniques enabling them to ascend mountain faces and to climb rocks which were considered unassailable up to that time American climbers went further by expanding and improving on the equipment They even developed a system of quantification where points were given for the degree of difficulty of an ascent This system focused primarily on the pitch of the mountain and it even calculated up to de mals to give a high degree of quantification Rock climbing became a technical system

Csikszentmihaly 1976 observed that the sole interest of rock climbers at that time was to climb the rock Rock climbers were known to reach the top and not even glance around at the scenery The focus was on reaching the top of the rock In contrast mountaineers saw the whole mountain as a single unit of perc tion The ascent to them is a gestalt including the aesthetic historical personal and physical sensations Csikszentmihaly 1976 p 486 This is an example of two contrasting approaches to the same kind of landscape and of two different groups of people Interestingly in the US Europe and Japan a large segment of the early rock climbers were young mathematicians and theoretical physicists while the mountaineers were a more varied lot
